OMB reserve decision on Terrelac

The Ontario Municipal Board has reserved a decision on an application by Terrelac Properties Ltd. of Toronto for a zoning change to property adjacent to Minden Lake.

The zoning change, from permanent to seasonal residential for property on Part Lot 6, Concession 3, and Part Lots 6 and 7, Concession 4, Minden Township, was the final obstacle in the way of Terrelac's plan to create 33 lots on the site.

An OMB hearing which convened in Minden last week to hear more than 40 objections to the proposed change, took three days to listen to arguments from both sides in the matter.

Main opposition to the Terrelac plan came from cottagers on the lake, who last summer formed an association to fight it. The cottagers' objections centred on a belief that an additional 30 lots would overcrowd the lake and diminish its recreational value for those who already own property adjacent to the 131 acre body of water. Lawyer Miss Y. Hamlin argued the cottagers' case before the board.

Arguing in favour of the development, which in draft form had received the approval of more than 20 government departments, including the Ministry of Natural Resources, was lawyer W.D. Russel.

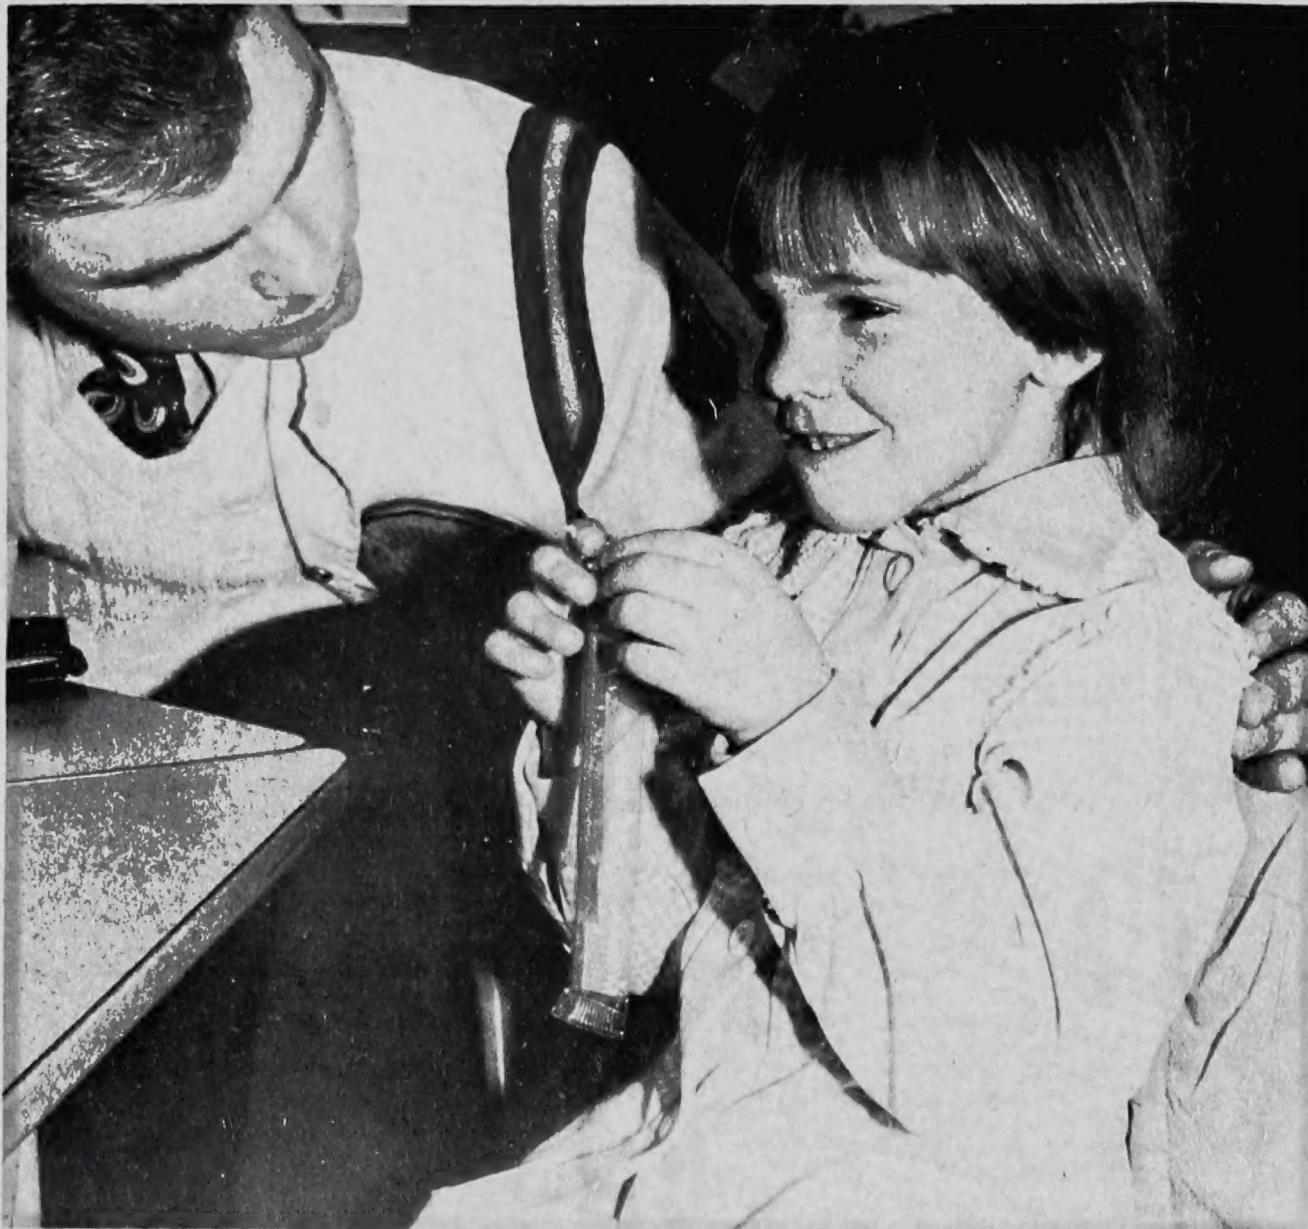

Anson, Hindon and Minden clerk Elinor Burk, who attended the hearing, said last week that the board appeared to be concerned about the number of lots, and about the possibility of parkland designation opening the door for future backlot development in the area.

A final decision on the matter is expected to be handed down by the OMB in two or three weeks. The decision may recommend reducing the number of lots in the subdivision by at least 50 percent.

Minden considers bylaw to create house numbers

Homeowners in Minden will soon have to place numbers on their houses. A by-law expected to be passed at the next meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden council will require every house in the village to carry four inch high numbers in a contrasting colour to aid in identification.

Clerk Elinor Burke said the numbering will be carried out with the aid of Bell Canada, and will help the company and others locate homes in the village.

Angela Scott was a little apprehensive when she came to register for kindergarten at Victoria Street School in Haliburton last Friday. But, after a little tete a tete with her dad, Roy Scott, she soon found out that school might not be that bad. The Haliburton and District health unit was on hand to explain immunization procedures to parents and to give the kids a free toothbrush.

Decision on 66' allowance could lead to big problems

by Sue Cooper

A recent Victoria County court decision may have left many Ontario municipalities and cottage owners in a real predicament.

The judgement, concerning lakefront property on Maple Lake in Stanhope Township, pointed out that the original road allowance around the lake had never been closed so neighbours were allowed to continue to drive across it.

"I was devastated as far as the decision is concerned," Hubert Moss, owner of the property in question said last Friday.

While the acknowledgement that lakefront property may be used by neighbours as an access road is horrifying to most cottage owners, the judgement on the Moss property may be a special case.

The circumstances which led to the county court decision began in 1973 when Moss, of Peterborough, told his next door neighbours, Leon Dragon and Olgierd Cichowski of Oshawa, that he would like them to stop driving across the lakefront as he was planning to improve his lot.

According to Moss the neighbours had been using the lakefront as access since they bought the cottage about eight years before, as had the previous owners.

In 1974, a court order was issued compelling Moss not to obstruct the path of any vehicles until the case was heard in court.

At that point Stanhope council received a letter from Moss' solicitor explaining the problem and asking council to intervene. Responding to the request, council said it was a civil matter between the two parties.

In 1975 a solicitor representing Moss made a presentation to council but received a similar reply.

Council then sought the advice of its own lawyer and was told that it could not interfere with the court order in any way, so the matter was dropped at the municipal level.

Judge Lloyd Woods ruled three weeks ago that because there was an original road allowance on the lakefront, Dragon and Cichowski should be permitted to use it.

"My case is not really relevant, but the ramifications of it are," Moss explained.

He suggested that if the 66 foot road allowance is an open

Ministry of Housing will meet with business people

Survey to test BIA concept

The 53 business people within the proposed Minden Business Improvement Area (BIA) will be asked to meet next Tuesday to learn more about the BIA program.

Anson, Hindon and Minden councillor Stuart Brandon, who is spearheading efforts to get the BIA off the ground, said this week that invitations will be sent out to all business people within the proposed area.

Representatives of the Ministry of Housing and the consulting firm of Totten, Sims, Hubicki Associates will be on hand at the meeting, which will be held in the community centre.

A business man participating in a BIA program in another town is also expected to attend the meeting to discuss the benefits and pitfalls of a BIA with local merchants.

Brandon said the ministry will show a film on BIA programs at the beginning of the meeting, and will also hand out copies of a BIA information kit.

The local business people will also be asked to complete a survey indicating if they are in favour of a BIA program for Minden. Brandon said the survey will include statistics on what a $5000 and $25,000 BIA program would cost each one of the 53 businesses within the proposed area. It will also show each business' cost for a $100,000 and $150,000 main street improvement program using low interest government loans repayable over a period of years. As well, the survey will indicate the percentage an individual business would be called on to contribute to any BIA program, and will allow business people to say how much they think should be spent on an initial BIA undertaking.

Brandon stressed that the program can be as small as the business people wish, although the Ministry of Housing has suggested a minimum budget of $5000 for any BIA program.

If results of the survey are favourable, council will proceed with a property standards by-law, and a draft BIA by-law. A 60 day notification period to give business people time to object is mandatory before the BIA by-law can be passed.

At an earlier meeting, attended by a little more than half the business people within the proposed BIA area, some 20 indicated they agreed in principle with a BIA program.

The meeting next Tuesday is expected to give council a clearer idea of whether or not a BIA program will work in Minden.

Municipal levies up average of 14.1 percent

Board sets '80 budget of $5,248,887, up 9.2%

The Haliburton County Board of Education has set a 1980 budget of $5,248,887, up $443,102, or 9.2 percent over last year.

Levies to municipalities will rise an average of 14.1 percent however, to offset a 1979 deficit of $103,458 and a provincial grant increase of only 8.4 percent.

But because assessment rose by approximately 2.5 percent across the county last year, the average residential taxpayer will see an increase of 11.4 percent in the education portion of their taxes this year.

Approval of the budget came at a special meeting of the board last Tuesday.

The total budget will be made up of municipal levies of $3,021,294, provincial grants of $2,014,004, and other revenue (including fees from other boards for students attending schools in Haliburton County), of $317,047.

According to the Board's business administrator, the under levy (or deficit) of $103,458 included in this year's budget is the result of extensive repairs to the roof at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, and increases in interest rates. Jim Leworthy said the over-expenditures add up to approximately $130,000.

Despite an increase in provincial grant support of 8.4 percent this year, the province's share of local education budgets has been declining in recent years. In 1977, the province supplied $2,052,000 to the local board, compared to $2,014,004 this year, a decrease of 1.8 percent, according to Leworthy.

The result has been a shift in costs to residential taxpayers and a consequent rise in municipal levies.

Anson, Hindon and Minden levy is $602,512 this year, up 15.1 percent.

Cardiff will pay $157,290 or 11.2 percent more than last year.

Dysart's levy is up 15 percent, to $937,733.

Glamorgan township ratepayers will shell out $194,953 13.8 percent more than in 1979.

Lutterworth's levy is $228,538, up 12.5 percent.

Monmouth's share has been set at $113,345, an increase of 15.5 percent over last year.

Sherborne et al's levy has increased by 15.7 percent, to $274,731.

Snowdon ratepayers will contribute $101,752, or 11.6 percent more than in 1979.

Stanhope's levy is $360,795 up 12 percent.

Bicroft's share of the total is $49,645, an increase of 10.5 percent.

Increases in the board's budget can be tied to the overall increase in the consumer price index or CPI, and in fact, have been less than CPI increases over the past four years, Leworthy said.

Significant increases in costs are linked to interest rates on money the board must borrow to operate until taxes are collected and grants received, rising tuition fees to other boards, hydro rate jumps, and heating oil price increases of 25 percent in the past year.

Salaries account for some 67 percent of the board's budget, while transportation amounts to 12 percent, maintenance 9 percent, debt charges five percent, and tuition fees to other boards, six percent.

All classrooms in county to be tested for asbestos

The quality of air in every classroom in Haliburton County will be monitored within the next few weeks, according to director of education, J.D. Hodgson.

With the aid of a machine to be supplied by the local health unit, the board will check for asbestos fibre and other impurities in the air students are exposed to in area schools.

Concern over asbestos fibre in school classrooms surfaced in the Toronto area several weeks ago. At least one school was ordered closed when asbestos fibre counts far above 'acceptable' levels were found. The school was reopened only after repair work was carried out to its heating system.

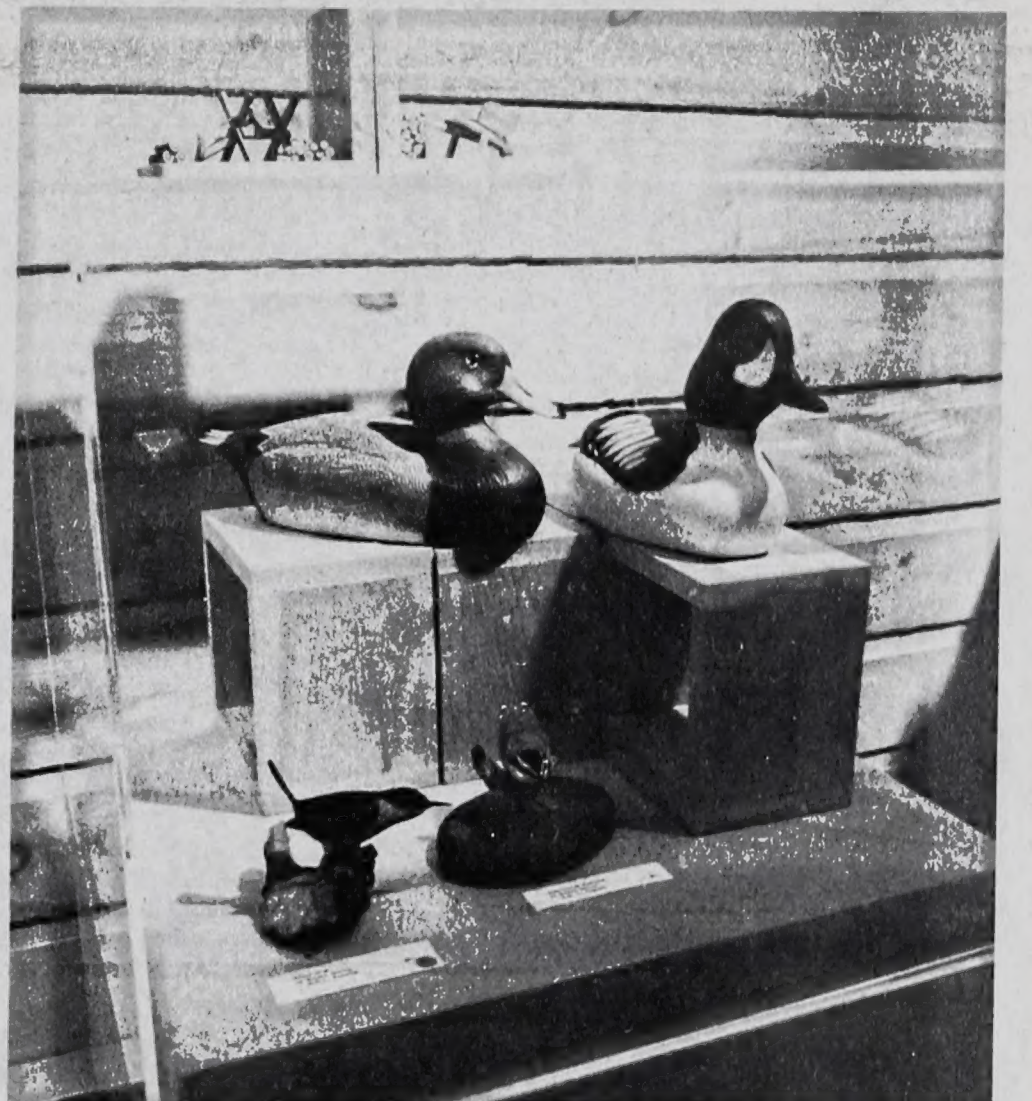

The local director of education said last week that the Ministry of Education set down restrictions on exposed asbestos in schools as long as eight years ago. One year ago, memorandums went out to all school boards asking them to examine all their buildings to check for asbestos.

Since then, Hodgson said, the board's maintenance staff has examined all area schools in search of possible sources of asbestos contamination.

Stanhope fire trucks are running on borrowed time

by Sue Cooper

Stanhope fire department trucks are running on borrowed time.

In fact, no one has even lent the extra time to the township department. And as the old story goes nobody has the authority to do so.

The unfortunate incident arose when township employees went to renew the licenses on the trucks in the latter part of March.

At that time, fire chief George Wilson found that the ownership in the fire truck was only a photostatic copy, so he took the copy and went to see the clerk, Gerald Bain. As is the policy with all township vehicles, the original ownerships are held in safekeeping while copies are put in the automobiles.

As luck would have it, the original ownership was nowhere to be found.

Bain wrote to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications on March 27 but there was little hope of receiving the new ownership before the March 31 license renewal deadline.

While the fire department is awaiting the arrival of the document, the chief has spoken to a corporal at the Minden OPP detachment, he told council last Wednesday. Although the police could not give permission for a vehicle to be driven on a highway without a license, they admitted that the fire truck would probably not be stopped if it was on its way to an emergency.

The new plates will be obtained as soon as the ownership is received by the township.

Elementary teaching force to be reduced by three

The number of elementary school teaching jobs in Haliburton County will be reduced by three next year. The decision came at a special meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education last Tuesday.

The teaching force at Archie Stouffer Public School in Minden will be reduced by one half time instructor. Gooderham will also lose a half time teacher. Wilberforce will lose one teacher, as highway, municipalities should have to remove all obstructions, including cottages that have been built on it.

On the original deed there is an allowance from the high water mark which allowed fishermen, lumbermen and mariners to use the property if they were in distress.

According to Stanhope clerk, Gerald Bain, the allowance has been called both a marine and road allowance but is now dubbed an original road allowance on most surveys.

"I believe that each allowance or the original allowance for road is different and has different circumstances in different areas, really," Bain said Monday.

"It (the decision) might not apply to all allowances," he added.

For years, according to Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations (FOCA) president Jerry Strickland, of Scarborough, the association has been trying to get the status of the allowances straightened out.

"It's too bad the case was decided at this time. I guess the judge didn't realize that new rules and regulations were coming," he said, referring to new legislation being tabled by James Auld, Minister of Natural Resources.

"If he (Moss) contacted us, our advice would be to appeal the decision," Strickland added.

Although the FOCA president thought the new rules regulating the sale of road allowances to private individuals would apply to this case, Jim Dewey, of the Minden MNR said the ministry would never recommend that an allowance which was providing someone with access should be sold.

"There are hundreds of little bits of road allowances all over that have never been used as a road and never will be," he said.

Even though an official announcement has not yet been made by the Minister, the FOCA has sent out a release stating the proposal as:

"(1) MNR will not object to the closure and disposition by municipalities, of their 66 foot road allowances, and MNR will favourably consider closure and disposition of 66 foot road allowances in townships without municipal organization or will sell 66 foot crown reserves inside or outside of municipalities, when the owner(s) of adjoining land request title to those 66 foot strips, provided that such action will not adversely affect MNR programs or will not conflict with existing or proposed public use.

(2) The fees for selling or leasing by MNR should cover only the ministry's administrative costs.

(3) In future dispositions of public land, the fixed 66 foot shoreline reserve should not be imposed. Where a reservation is considered necessary, it should be a width and shape that suits the situation.

(4) Existing docks and boat-houses for private use, located on crown land under water, be viewed as necessary appurtenances to the ownerships and maintenance of waterfront property and the owners will be permitted to use the crown land so occupied without written approval or payment of fees.

(5) Existing and future private corporations of crown land under water, comprised of landfill and/or structures with living quarters, must be regularized at fees based on market value of the crown land occupied.

(6) Beginning from a specified date, all future proposals to construct facilities whether private or commercial use, on crown land under water will be subject to written approval from the municipalities where its by-laws require a building permit or similar approval or the MNR manager where no municipal controls exist."

"These are just new and different guidelines, we're taking a more relaxed attitude," Dewey explained.

One problem that arises if someone tried to make use of an allowance would be finding out where it actually lies.

"This reserve was 66 feet from the high water mark but over the years, as a result of storms and erosion and mostly as a result of dams, in some cases this allowance could be under water," Bain explained.

He pointed out that all that was needed to municipalities was the 66 feet from the old high water mark.

Although Moss said he thought council could rectify his problem by just passing a by-law to close the road allowances, the clerk said no request has been made yet.

Moss added that he did not think the road closure would interfere with the judge's ruling because he had made his decision on the situation as it now stands.

So it seems that while the judgement has certainly set a precedent for lakefront properties, each individual case would have to be judged on its own merits.

Classroom air to be checked

problem," Hodgson said. "We are not certain we are completely devoid of asbestos, but we have for a year been doing everything we can to ensure that there is not asbestos fibre in the air."

(Asbestos has been linked to lung and other forms of chest cancer, and is considered highly carcinogenic in levels well above recommended maximums).

Heating air passing above exposed ceiling tile was found to be responsible for the high asbestos levels in the Toronto school which was recently ordered closed.

Heating air in county schools is carried in enclosed ductwork however, making contamination far less likely. A hot water system is used to heat Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Despite the precautions already taken by the board, however, Hodgson said it is difficult for maintenance staff to identify everything in a school which might contain asbestos, and thus the decision was made to monitor air quality using a machine supplied through the local branch of the health unit.

Testing will begin as soon as the machine is available, Hodgson said.

Board to hire new teacher

The Haliburton County Board of Education has decided to hire a new teacher for Haliburton Highlands Secondary School to bring the teaching force to 38 from the

None of the four teachers involved will be laid off. Instead, the reduction will take place because of retirement and voluntary withdrawal from the teaching force, according to the Board's director of education, J. D. Hodgson.

of next year unless enrolment rises substantially.

A number of citizens in Gooderham have formed a committee in an effort to block the possible closure, and a petition has circulated in the community. Glamorgan Township council has also thrown its support behind the committee.

Director of education, J.D. Hodgson said he, along with area trustee Vanietta Pickens, and board chairman Len Salvatori, intends to meet with the committee later this month to discuss the future of the school.

"The community is well organized," Hodgson said. "We're delighted with the interest."

The Gooderham school presently has an enrolment of 38.5 students in Kindergarten through Grade 4.

present 37.

The previous teaching force of 41 was reduced to 37 in 1979 as a result of enrolment projections which painted a bleak picture of a shrinking student body. The expected decline was not forthcoming, however, with the result that some classes were larger than expected this year.

The staff increase is due less to a more stable enrolment however, than to a change in policy which has brought an increase in students signing up to take shop courses.

The 1980-81 school year will mark the first time shop courses will be worth two credits. They were previously assigned three credits, taking up three periods in a nine period school day. Under the three credit system it was difficult, if not impossible for students in the academic stream to take a shop course for general interest. The change to a two credit program has opened the door for more students to enroll in shop courses, according to the board's director of education, J.D. Hodgson.

Students have opted for a total of 723 credits in shop next year, compared to 538 credits this year, Hodgson said, adding that he was "pleased with the results". He said they indicate that students are recognizing that "there is a shortage of technologically trained people in our society."

The hiring of another shop teacher and the increase in enrolment in shop courses is expected to reduce the problem of large classes which surfaced in some courses this year.

"Our staffing should be a little more suitable to our enrolment than it was last year (1979-80)," Hodgson said. "Some of the pressure in the academic side should be somewhat relieved."

Parachute school considers Stanhope

by Sue Cooper

There could be people dropping from the sky in Stanhope Township in the foreseeable future.

According to airport committee member Derek Rolfe, the Toronto Parachute School is interested in holding classes at the Stanhope airport on the weekend this summer.

He told council last Wednesday that the committee had received a verbal proposition, through Air-Haliburton owner, Jim McLean. The operators of the parachute school will be meeting with the committee to discuss the idea in the near future.

At first, council had some apprehension that the area might not be best suited for parachuting because of the many forests and lakes.

But Rolfe pointed out that the club uses a type of chute that allows the jumper to guide himself safely to the ground.

The terrain is probably an attraction for the area as it would add challenge to a jump, Rolfe added.

Along with the obvious interest that the activity would add to the airport, Rolfe said it could be used as a tourist attraction and that the increased traffic at the airport might help make it qualify for federal assistance in the future.

"The committee was concerned if we had the facilities, but Jim (McLean) assured us that they would be folding the chutes outside and that if they needed cover they could use his hangar," Rolfe told council.

"The committee thought it would be good to stir up some activity at the airport," he said, adding that this school provided parachutists at the Stanhope Fly-in, free of charge.

He noted that the school was fully licensed and that the instructor had more than 2,000 jumps to his credit.

Although council gave its approval in principle to the idea, Rolfe suggested that council meet with the school officials after the committee had covered the ground work.

Minden curlers pick site, begin building campaign

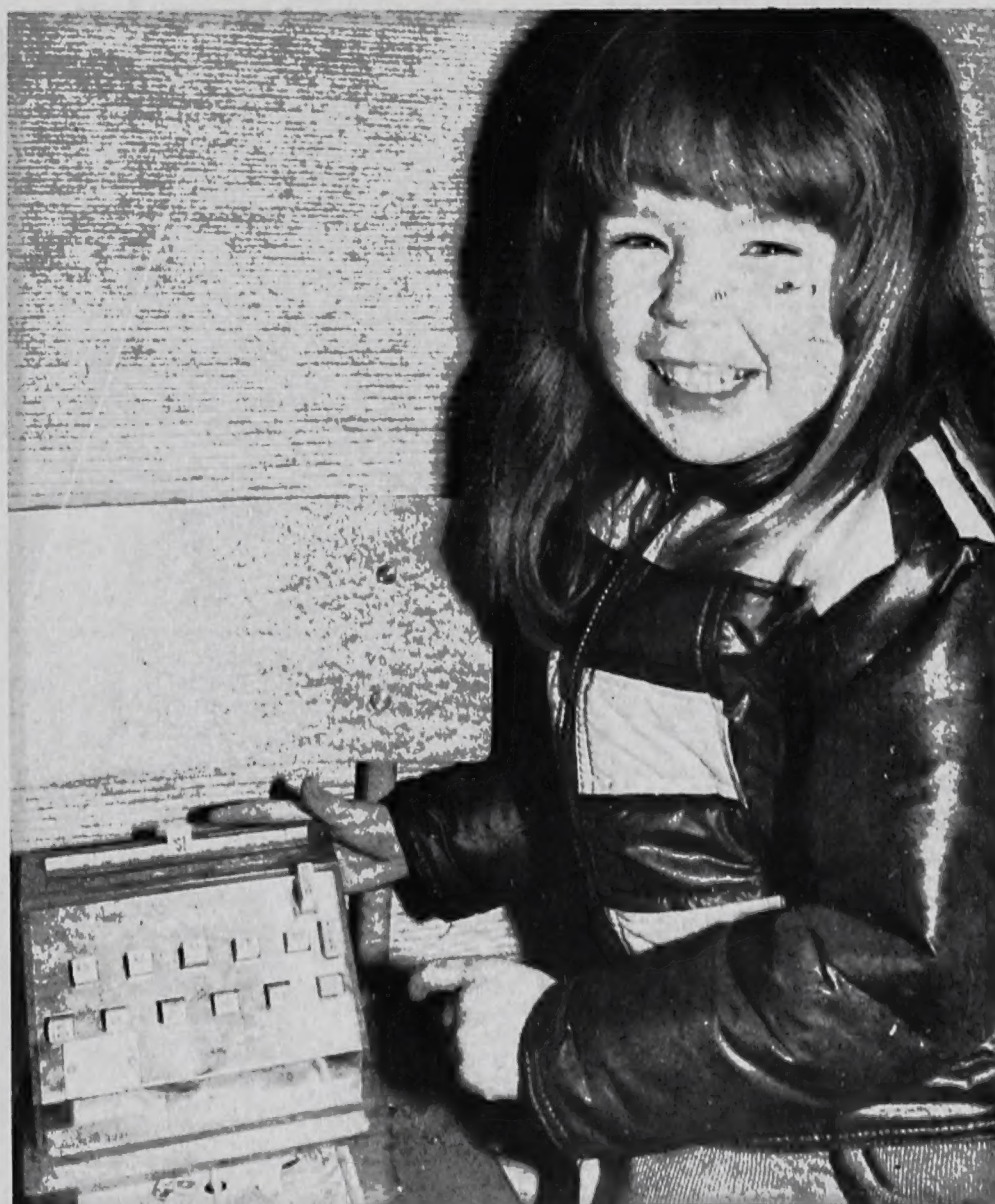

Minden curlers will launch a campaign this week to raise the estimated $70,000 they'll need to complete a new curling club in the village.

Godfrey Saunders, chairman of the building committee, said plans are being finalized for a four sheet structure, and will be presented to the general membership May 7. Ten days later, the committee hopes to call for tenders. Construction is expected to start July 1, with completion by November 1 of this year.

College gets grants

The Ministry of Education has announced that Sir Sandford Fleming College will receive a total operating grant of $8,756,368 for the 1980-81 year.

The grant represents a 7.9 percent funding increase over last year.

Skye Newbatt really took advantage of all the toys that were available to play with in the kindergarten room at Victoria Street School last Friday. Skye will be starting school next September.

Youths charged in wake of breakins

A Haliburton youth remains in custody in Lindsay jail after he was charged with break and enter with intent a week ago last Thursday.

Terry Curtis Grant, 17, was charged after the apartment of Gunter Franke in Haliburton was entered. Most of the furniture inside was overturned but was not damaged.

The incident was discovered by a person who noticed that the door to the Franke apartment had been left open.

Approximately 1,200 board feet of six-inch hemlock timbers were stolen from the Biagi Lumber Mill in Haliburton sometime between April 4 and 9.

Alpa Lumber Co. Inc., of Scarborough, was the victim of the theft since it owns all the lumber at the mill site.

Four Haliburton youths and one juvenile have been charged with break, enter and theft following two incidents in the past three weeks.

John Philip Smith, 18 of RR 2, Haliburton, Brett Floyd Hie, 18 of Haliburton, Peter Austin, 16 of Haliburton, Robert Smith, 20 of Haliburton, and a 15-year old male juvenile whose name was not released by police, were charged after thieves entered the Haliburton curling club early last Thursday morning.

The curling club was entered through an unlocked fire door and approximately $250 worth of liquor was stolen. Thirty dollars worth of the liquor has been recovered.

All of the accused will appear in Minden court on May 13.

Hie, Austin and the juvenile were also charged with break, enter and theft and also possession of stolen property related to a break-in at Curry Motors in Haliburton on March 25.

The 1979 pick-up truck was found the next day abandoned near Oshawa.

Cardiff council holds meeting

At a meeting April 3, Cardiff council considered the following matters:

Man is charged with welfare fraud

A Wilberforce man has been charged with defrauding the Municipality of Dysart et al in connection with welfare assistance.

Charged is W. J. Donald Outram, 30.

The fraud is alleged to have taken place at the municipal office in Haliburton between July 29, 1979 and April 10, 1980. The recipient, who required assistance because of an accident in 1976, was working at a business in Wilberforce while he was collecting benefits. None of these earnings were reported to the welfare officials.

Outram will appear in Minden court on May 13.

was westbound when the accident occurred. His 1970 car received a damage estimate of $500 while damage to Pincombe's 1978 car was estimated at $800.

An Arizona woman escaped injury last Friday night when the four-wheel drive truck she was driving hit a rail fence on McCrackens Road in Minden Township.

Diane Varner, 23 of Paradise Valley, was headed west on the private road.

The 1979 truck was damaged to the tune of $3,000.

Minden to restrict store hours

Anson, Hindon and Minden council is expected to pass a store hours by-law before the end of April.

The by-law, considered in draft form at a meeting last Wednesday, will restrict Sunday opening for stores with more than 1,500 square feet.

At present, no stores that large are open in Minden on Sundays, and there has been no indication that they wish to stay open. But the by-law is intended to prevent any future problems which could arise if local grocery stores opted to stay open on Sundays in competition with convenience stores.

A question of use and abuse

As long as there have been cottages in Haliburton County, both their owners and municipal councils have had a tacit agreement about the use of the shoreline or road allowances that encircle most area lakes. Cottagers have been assumed to have full use and control of the allowance in front of their property so long as the municipality has no specific use for it. Recently, however, the decision of a Victoria County court judge has thrown that understanding into doubt. Judge Lloyd Woods ruled three weeks ago that a cottager on Maple Lake had the right to use part of an original allowance to gain access to his cottage, even though that meant driving across the beachfront of a neighbour. The judge ruled that according to an 1886 deed from the Crown, the 66 foot allowance exists, and can be used by virtually anyone. The ruling came even though the defendant had offered to provide access across the rear of his property for his next door neighbour.

The matter may seem like a petty squabble between cottage owners in a specific location and under specific circumstances, but in fact, its implication for all cottagers is far reaching. The judge's view that a marine allowance on an 1886 deed is in fact a road allowance may have set a precedent for similar cases in the future.

While most area lakes are ringed by a 66 foot allowance surveyed from the original high water mark, the allowance was not primarily for roads. It was created rather to give mariners and loggers in distress a place to land. That right still exists, as does a municipality's right to use the original allowance for road construction if necessary. In almost all cases however, roads have been built behind the allowances, and there are very few places left in Haliburton County where the original allowance will be used for future road construction.

Based on the Victoria County judge's decision, cottagers may have nothing more than the goodwill of their neighbours to protect them from abuse of the allowance in front of their property. And no matter how much importance is placed on that goodwill, there are inconsiderate people who may now see a way to take advantage of a loophole in the tacit understanding of who has use and control of unopened shoreline allowances.

Councils must now give serious consideration to disposing of those unopened allowances for the protection of cottagers. The process has already begun in a limited way. County council recently agreed to sell part of a right-of-way which lies under a cottage in Lutterworth Township. It has not yet agreed to close entire marine allowances however, even though the Ministry of Natural Resources appears ready to allow such closures and sales.

Councils have long sought to protect the allowances as a hedge against an uncertain future. Now, they may have little choice but to sell them off to protect cottagers from abuse at the hands of the inconsiderate.

The wonder of it all

Anyone who thought the $100 million amusement park currently under construction at Maple, north of Toronto was going to be a great boon for Haliburton County was probably disappointed last Wednesday night when one of the park's representatives came to the PineStone Inn. The evening was billed as a chance for local tourist operators and business people to find out how they could "cash in" on the expected influx of people to the park. It turned out to be little more than an uncomfortably slick and high powered sell job on the wonders of Rollercoasters, Hanna Barbera cartoons, and consumers with a full wallet and a penchant for chintzy souvenirs and fast food. The Disney World of the north it definitely isn't.

All that is fair enough. The companies spending the $100 million plus it will cost to create the park obviously know their market. They know that there are families of four willing to shell out $50, $60, or $100 for a day of rides and indigestion. They know too that one, or perhaps two days at the site will be all any stomach or pocket book can take. And thus the suggestion that the surrounding area will reap spinoff benefits as families move on to find other diversions.

But make no mistake. Canada Wonderland is not about to be a good corporate citizen and drop in a word or two about Haliburton County or Muskoka in its literature. That will cost money. And if the scale of the project and slick approach seen at the PineStone last week are any indication, it will probably cost plenty.

In a world already glutted with fast food and cheap souvenirs, there may be a better value elsewhere.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

If light industry locates in Haliburton County, it will help to alleviate the problems of a seasonal economy, but will not be able to solve them.

Rising energy, transportation and labour costs, plus uncertain markets are forcing industry throughout Canada into automation which in turn reduces the need for man power.

Short of large-scale industrialization, possible only in or near large centers of population, the problems of year-round employment for the citizens of Haliburton County will not be solved in this way.

A balanced year-round economy will only be achieved if we start utilizing all of our resources as intensively as possible, something which so far has not been necessary.

A picture in the Echo dated March 26, 1980 raises some questions to which I would like an answer. The notation under the photo leaves some doubt in my mind. I refer to the old car which Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts "once again" ran a contest on, to guess the date and time the car would "plunge through the ice of Head Lake". I would like to know just what happens to that car after it breaks through. Since the photo clearly shows it is at the end of a dock, I presume that it

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

by Len Pizzey

Last week, on my return from a weekend in London, I found a note on my desk from Joe Banks, who left the Echo several weeks ago to take a job as a reporter for the Fort Erie Times. Before he left, we had long conversations about what he wanted to do, and why he wanted to leave. And it all came down to one thing. Challenge. After a year or two in a small community like Haliburton, facing the same stories, the same councils, the same attitudes, and the same creative limitations, it's easy to grow restless, to want to move on to better, or at least different things. And so it was with Joe. We both knew it was time for him to move on months before the decision was made. And I knew too, that were I in different circumstances, I, like Joe, would move on to other things, other papers where the challenge of a new community and a fresh approach can do much to get one's creative energy flowing again.

He asked me to run the following article from the Fort Erie Times as a Letter to the Editor, but it isn't, and I think it would better fit into this column. So here is what Joe told the people of Fort Erie in the first newspaper he had a hand in there.

I was told by the publisher I was to write a story introducing myself into the community. "What kind of a story," I asked. "Light and humorous, or sober and straight forward?"

Well, I was told to write it any way I wanted; it could always be changed. Having a choice of how to write the very first story for a newspaper is not easy. It's hard to be imaginative in new surroundings, around new people, and bang away on a different kind of typewriter.

I come from the Haliburton County Echo and Minden Recorder as a photographer-reporter, a weekly operating out of Haliburton, Ontario. I worked at the paper for a year and a half, until I realized it was time to look for new challenges, new faces and a new life.

During my stint at The Echo, I came to have a personal attachment to the community. Small town life somehow agreed with me, and I developed many friends and contacts, and I enjoyed the personal touch with everyone I talked with. Have a coffee at the Cozy Corner, the village's only restaurant, and find out how Alf Windsor's trap-line did near Peterson Creek, or how Buck Buchanan's mare fared the other night when she had her colt.

It was nice, but Fort Erie has a new dimension to offer. It maintains that small-town atmosphere, and yet it seems to pervade a young sophistication, sort of like a teenager just learning how to tie a tie.

Like Haliburton, Fort Erie is an old community, with many interesting facts behind its history. If first impressions are any indication, it looks like the town's future will hold some great possibilities as well.

I work for you to inform the community, either through pictures or stories, and I hope I can do the job you've come to expect from the Times-Review staff. I hope to maintain that personal touch which came to mean so much to me in Haliburton, and

by

Creighton Feir

Well, it's that time of year again when we are in the midst of the Stanley Cup play-offs. For many of you who are Montreal Canadiens fans, I would imagine that you will be pulling for the Canadiens to repeat and win the Stanley Cup once again. I won't be one of them as I always like to pull for the underdogs and I just love to see an upset whether it be in sports, politics or what have you. Speaking of upsets, the first game of the play-offs brought one with the Pittsburgh Penguins upsetting the favourite Boston Bruins and a near upset when the Edmonton Oilers nearly won over the front running Philadelphia Flyers only to lose out in overtime. I am a Chicago Black Hawk fan from away back so I am hoping that they pull a really big upset and win the Stanley Cup, something they haven't had for a great many years. Chicago have had some great teams in the past when one goes back to the time of Max and Doug Bentley, that great netminder Charlie Gardiner, Bobby Hull, Stan Mikita and many others. During the past few years they have had some pretty rotten teams and we doubt that at most times if they could have beaten the Haliburton Huskies. I am not saying that they have a championship team this year, but I do know one thing for sure and that is that they are a much improved team over past years. As the playoffs progress we can all look for some upsets and this is what makes hockey such an interesting sport. There are some of us who might not like to admit it but let's face the fact that the Montreal Canadiens are still the team to beat for the Stanley Cup. If they don't win it, look out for either Buffalo, New York Islanders, Boston Bruins or the Flyers to go all the way. I still think that the Montreal Canadiens are the best team in the National Hockey League but some of us are always hoping that one of the other teams will come along and knock them off and this could be the year that this will happen. It just seems to be human nature that when you are on top, most of the people seem to want to knock you off of your pins. On the other hand, it's great to be a winner and we should all strive to be winners whether it be in sports, politics, business or in our everyday lives. Who wants to be a loser? It's easy to be a winner, but it's very hard to be a loser. Think about it. While still on the subject of the Stanley Cup playoffs one of my biggest thrills so far in the play-offs was just seeing Bobby Hull doing his stuff again but this time it was for the Hartford Whalers. He still has most of the same great moves and certainly didn't look out of place in the first game even though the Whalers were badly outscored and outplayed by the Canadiens from the city of Montreal. There is still about a month and a half to go before a winner will be declared.

Everyone is welcome to attend the St. George's Day Pot Luck Supper to be held at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton on Wednesday, April 23, 6:00 p.m. Please bring dinner and a dessert, open to all in the community.

Ray Golabiewski, General Manager of Barnes Hinds Canada, manufacturers of pharmaceutical products - for contact lenses and who is a director of Anthony Foster and Sons wholesalers and distributors will be the guest speaker when the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship in Canada hold their monthly dinner meeting at the Canadian Legion Hall in Haliburton this coming Friday evening at 7:00 p.m.

I noticed in the Wilberforce news column in last week's Echo written by Winnie Schofield that she had a few complaints re the mailing out of the annual Easter Seal envelopes. As I am the chairman of the Rotary Club of Haliburton Easter Seal Campaign, I thought I would try to clear up a few matters in conjunction with this problem. We are glad to report that we did not lose the Wilberforce mailing list and we hope that by this time that the envelopes have arrived in Wilberforce. We apologize for the delay which was the result of a mistake being made when the material for mailing was originally ordered. We hope that by this time everyone has their envelopes and that they will send in their donations. Thank you.

My good friend Don Popple and myself got around to discussing several subjects of interest recently and one of the topics was baseball. During the conversation I just happened to mention a great player of a by-gone era, Phil Marhildon when Don piped up stating that Phil came from his hometown of Penetang. I personally can remember seeing him pitch one night in Toronto when he played for the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League and later he went on to play for the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League. Don presented me with a write-up he had cut out of the Penetang newspaper with an article by Charlie Noquet which he makes several quotes from the Sporting News, more commonly known as "The Baseball Bible". We quote. "Yes, the Penetang-uishe native son who was at that stage of his illustrious baseball career acknowledged as the pitching ace of the Philadelphia Athletics mound staff was rated right up there with such outstanding baseball stars as Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, Bob Feller, Lou Boudreau, George Kell, Joe Page, Joe Gordon, George McQuinn and Luke Appling. Yet, although most of these above mentioned players have been admitted to or recognized by Baseball's Hall of Fame, Marchildon, one of the hardest throwing righthanders of his era, has received but little homage in this respect."

There are two events coming up that we think should be of interest to a great many people. One is the Marriage Encounter Information Night to be held at St. James Church Hall in Fenelon Falls on Tuesday, April 22 at 8 p.m. This is open to any interested couple. May we also remind you of a workshop on ministering to the elderly to be held at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Lindsay on Thursday, April 24th from 6:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. and then on Friday, April 25th from 10:00 a.m. to 12 noon. Leaders will be sister Constance Mary Mathieson, Toronto Diocesan, committee on the elderly. This program is open to all, but especially to people who work with the elderly and people who live or socialize with them.

HALIBURTON WAR MEMORIAL.

Official dedication of Haliburton's war memorial was held in 1919

Our thanks go out this week to Mrs. Winnie Schofield of Wilberforce, Ontario for supplying us with this picture of the Haliburton War Memorial taken in the year 1921. The official dedication of this First World War Memorial 1914-1918, located at the Cenotaph on Haliburton's main street was held in 1919. Since that time names of local men who laid down their lives for their country in other wars have been added to the long list on this memorial. Many services have been held at his Cenotaph and many important people including Lord Willington, Governor General of Canada have taken part in services here. The Drumhead Service was held in Haliburton on October 4, 1954 and was one of the largest service parades ever held by the Legion in Haliburton. The main service was held here at the Cenotaph.

Report from Queen's Park

by MPP John Eakins

Acid Rain

Of interest to this riding is that based on comments by the Minister of the Environment, we can shortly expect an Ontario program to combat acid rain, including measures affecting Inco Ltd. in Sudbury, the province's major source of acid rain. The Minister refused to give details, but stated that Ontario will be taking the lead, instead of waiting for U.S. action. In the past, he has taken the line that we can accomplish little in the absence of U.S. abatement measures, because U.S. smokestacks contribute an estimated 50 to 80 percent of acid rain falling in Canada. He indicated that he is finally prepared to move on this matter because he has become aware that "people are more and more concerned about the environment... My resolve is backed by the will of the people," he said.

Solar Heating

A province wide competition has been announced, on which the Ministry of Energy will spend $200,000 to encourage the design and construction of energy-efficient housing with passive solar heating. As you probably know, passive solar heating collects thermal energy through windows without using fans, pumps, or other mechanical collection devices. Design proposals will be solicited from registered builders and a steering committee will choose 10 to 15 designs for further development. Subsequently, some or even all of the designs will be constructed, with builders assuming basic costs and the province paying the additional costs of passive solar heating.

Health Clinics

A new Ontario government patient treatment program is proving to be controversial. Under the scheme, a clinic of seven doctors in St. Marys - a town of 4,700 people - was paid $712,788 by the Ontario Health Insurance Plan in 1978. There are some 28 other such clinics around the province. These Health Service Organizations - HSOs - are clinics where doctors are paid an annual flat fee for patients on their rosters, even though some patients may not visit the clinics for years. The St. Marys' clinic is actually an unofficial HSO and has been operating under the system since 1971. It will not officially become an HSO until July.

must be hauled out of the lake at the earliest possible date. Am I wrong, or does this wreck just rust away on the bottom of Head Lake? If the latter is true, then I have to say how disappointed I am with this method of raising funds.

The beautiful lakes of northern Ontario and particularly our beloved Haliburton have already enough pollution with acid rain and motor boats without adding to this most serious condition in the name of fund-raising.

Even if this car is hauled out, a certain amount of oil and grease will be added to Head Lake. I do feel strongly that the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts should give some serious consideration to just what they are doing.

Surley some better method to raise funds could be found than to willfully pollute beautiful Haliburton.

I trust this contest will not become an annual event as your wording implies.

Thank you for an opportunity to air my viewpoint.

Marjorie Wilson,

Marking examination papers brings out the best and the worst in a teacher. Any tomfool can set an examination. Any other idiot can write the thing. But marking the finished, or more often unfinished product is something else.

In some ways, marking exams is the absolute anus of the sometimes creative body of teaching. It is to the teacher what an over-flowed toilet is to the plumber.

Normally, a plumber's life is a fairly happy one. Whanging away at pipes. Cursing gaily as he tries to unscrew a rusted nut. Dropping a dirty great wrench on the customer's new tile floor. And writing out a whacking great bill at $14 an hour, plus parts which must be made of 24-carat gold. On the whole, a satisfactory, fulfilling life. A plumber is usually a smiling, affable chap, much like the highwaymen of olden times, who grinned gallantly as they stripped the passengers of the stage of their valuables.

It's the same with teachers. You seldom see a teacher who is not smiling, except between the first of September and the end of June.

They too have their little joys of everyday life: bullying kids; cursing the principal, under their breaths; gossiping venomously about colleagues who are having more fun than they; happily whining about being underpaid and over-worked; thanking God that it's Friday. A challenging life of dedication and idealism.

But both parties have one in common, and that is to be in their throat, or whatever you call it.

When a plumber walks in, rubber-botted, and faces a floor covered with water, sanitary napkins, toilet tissue, and semi-dissolved feces, his normally serene mien becomes one of stony stoicism.

And when a teacher finishes a term at school, utterly exhausted, empty of ideals, drained of dedication, and faces the marking of about 180 exam papers, his normally congenial expression turns into something resembling the agony expressed in a cheap reproduction of the Crucifixion.

Nobody looks quite as crucified, staggering home with both arms full of exam papers, as the English teacher. His/her thoughts about Phys. Ed teachers, shop teachers, business teachers and others who don't have formal exams are unprintable in a family journal. Their attitudes toward science teachers and geography teachers, with their true-false exams, are barely less charitable.

These ruminations, none of them original, recurred to me as I sat serenely during this year's March break, pursuing the current crop of regurgitations, wild guesses, and hopeful meanderings that constitute the average student's exam.

Thwarted from pressing into the frozen North, while so many of my colleagues were heading for the sunny South, by that common enemy, the common cold, I shucked off all resentment, irritation, and hopes for a holiday, and marked my papers.

It was my old lady who had the cold, and she stayed out of my hair for a change. I sat like Solomon, alternately amused, bemused, bewildered, and occasionally bewitched, by the outpourings of adolescence.

Some were simply stunned. Others were desperate, seeking any port in a storm. Some had a clue, but couldn't solve the case. And very occasionally, there was sheer delight in seeing a keen, original mind at work.

I mentioned the chore as bringing out the best and the worst in the harassed pedagogues, peering, pencilling, pouting over the papers.

One becomes a philosopher: "Oh, well, what the hell? We can't all be brain surgeons," after reading the efforts of one who has professed the desire for such a profession, and spells it "brain surgen."

One becomes a philanthropist: "He's flunking badly. But he did clean the blackboards and plug in the record players and said 'Have a nice holiday, sir', and he's going into the old man's business because there's nowhere else to go, so I'll give him 10 marks for co-operation and attitude. That'll please the Guidance Department."

One is amused. She wrote on the outside of the paper: "I did my best, Mr. Smiley. I hope your in a good mood when you mark this." I took off a mark because she misspelled "you're".

One is appalled. Question: "Use a sentence containing the word morale." Answer: "A hero thinks he is greater than ordinary morales." Things like this make the young teacher panic and ask self, "What's happening? I'm not getting through to these kids at all." Not to worry. The kid will probably be a good mother.

Occasionally, one is enchanted. One of those students who is a wall-flower in class, obviously shy, hiding behind drooping eyelids, flowers on paper, all inhibitions forgotten in the sheer joy of expression, and turns in a brilliant piece of creative thinking. And the teacher is momentarily elated, realizing he has kindled a flame.

All in all, an enriching experience, giving the marker a good look at a good cross-section of youngsters, a few good laughs, some self-doubts, a certain humility, a delightful feeling of playing God Jr., and the odd flash of sheer satisfaction, if not joy.

To heck with holidays from now on. Spend a lot of money getting nowhere with a lot of disgruntled fellow-travellers, get home exhausted and disappointed. From now on, I'm going to stay home and mark papers.

On hand for the dinner and dance were members of the Legion and the Ladies Auxiliary, many of whom were honoured with service pins and medals in presentations which followed the meal.

Missionary Linda Sibley felt safe in troubled Middle East

by Sue Cooper

In a time when the Middle East is riddled with terrorist activities and invasions, it is surprising to hear of a peace-loving operation existing in its midst.

Linda Sibley of Tory Hill, has just returned home from Pakistan where she spent two and a half years teaching the children of missionaries.

Contrary to recent international media reports, Sibley said life in Pakistan did not seem to be threatened by the troubles in Afghanistan or Iran which are both bordering countries.

"I felt very safe in Pakistan, I never felt threatened," she said from her home last Friday.

While in the country, Sibley lived mainly in a Christian community in Murree located in northern Pakistan's mountains at about 7,500 feet above sea level.

The school where she taught grades 8, 9 and 10 French, English and bible studies, housed 140 students in grades 1 through 12.

She said life in Murree didn't give a westerner the real idea of life in Pakistan, but that more of the people's lifestyle could be seen at the mission hospitals on the plains.

In the winter, when it was too cold to live in the mountains, the school would be closed and Sibley travelled to one of the Bible and Medical Missionary Fellowship's hospitals to help out in the kitchen.

Her main effort was to clean up the kitchen because the missionaries at the hospital had no time to keep it clean.

"The cook we had at the school was very clean," she said. He did all the shopping and cleaned the meat thoroughly and boiled all their water for 20 minutes before it was drunk.

It would have been impossible for the teachers at the school to have cooked their own meals because "it would take a long time to prepare," she said.

Shopping for the food is completely different as one store might carry only vegetables and another one only meat so it was a long process.

A rather unappealing thought to Canadians who buy most of their meat in fancy cellophane packages is that none of the meat in the markets was covered with anything.

"If you were careful, you didn't have to worry," Sibley said.

While life inside the Christian community was almost like being at home, Sibley said that the missionaries had to be careful how they dressed when they went to some other areas.

"It's a man's culture," she said, adding that most of the women wore 'burkas' (a cloth that covers face and head) when they went out in public.

Most westerners wore a Karachi suit, named after one of the modern cities in Pakistan, or the more traditional shalvar kamiz (shalvar meaning pants and kamiz shirt).

Sometimes it was even necessary to wear something over their heads, Sibley said, but she noted that the teachers never wore a burka because that was a Moslem religious garment.

culture'

"Even though we were trying to be sensitive to their culture, some would stare and make rude comments to us," she said.

"The only idea they have of North American women is what they see at the movies," and Sibley pointed out that it usually wasn't a true picture.

Many of the Pakistanis adorned their clothing with bright coloured embroidery and mirror work, Sibley said.

Also, many of the poorer people would only have one set of clothing for the entire year and would receive their next outfit just before the largest Moslem celebration in November.

In a country of approximately 75 million people, 97 percent belong to the Moslem religion with about one percent being Christians, Sibley said.

Copied from Victorian England, China and Europe

Artist brings toys to life

by Carole McLean

Wood Show Opening in Rails' End Station Gallery
Paul Simpson, the toy-maker from Stouffville, brought his magic to the schools of Haliburton County and the Station Gallery last Friday.

The toys are all of wood made by himself and they are copies of old, hand-made toys of Victorian England, China and all parts of Europe. His plan is to preserve these beautiful, clever ideas before they are lost in our plastic world.

He gave a brief history of each toy and puzzle then kept his audiences of children and adults enthralled as these beautifully carved people danced and did acrobatic stunts, as the Jacobs Ladders changed colours and shapes, as puppets appeared out of cones and glared angrily about.

As this young man talked, demonstrated and entertained it reminded one of what it must have been like in the days of Hans Christian Andersen. These are simple toys, their interest being in the perfection of workmanship, the dexterity gained with their use to make them do funny and clever things and the fascination of the drome" is the topic of this week's second discussion group to be held April 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Rails' End Gallery. This group is open to the general public and is free, so take the time and join us for an evening of stimulating conversation and enlightenment. It is sponsored by Sir Sandford Fleming College.

Carvings did acrobatic stunts person. These are simple toys, their interest being in puzzles which looked simple but demanded patience, skill and intellect.

These toys are on display at the Station Gallery Wood Show until April 26. They came alive last Friday when the toy maker took them in his hands.

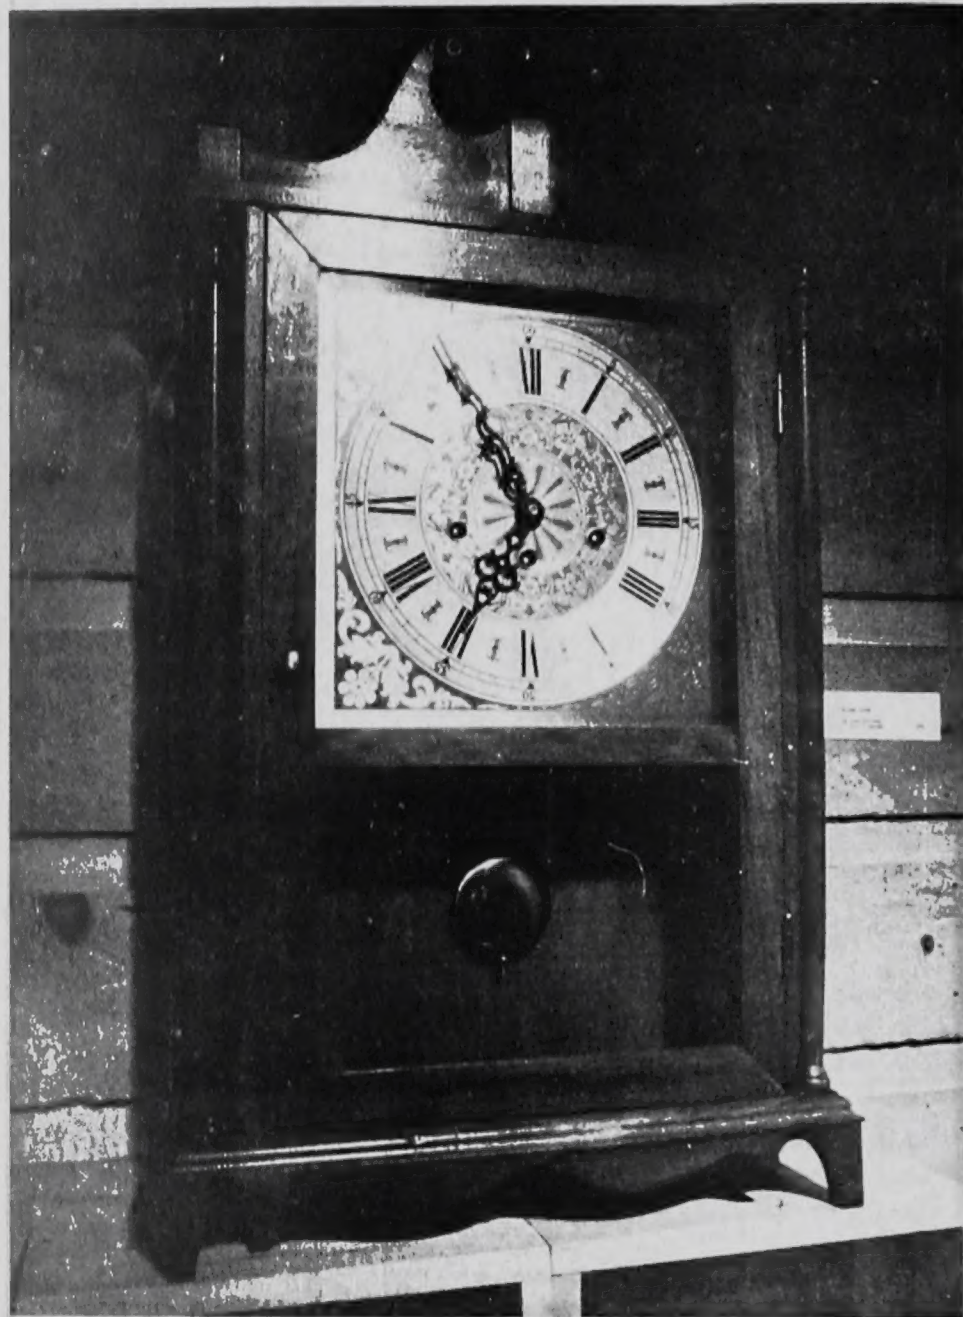

Thus went the opening night of the current show at the Rails' End Gallery, opening to all the wonders of wood crafted pieces by talented craftsmen from Haliburton and around the province. Among those participating in the show are Grant Rae, Derek Smith, Derek Rolfe, Frank Parkes, Jack Bassett, Alex Stirling, Steven Hogen, Don McKinley, Robert Dunlop, Don Cummings, Angus Coulter and Arnold Coulter (deceased). Also represented at the show are the second year wood students from the Sheridan College of Design, Mississauga, Ontario.

To view the work of these talented craftsmen is to wonder at their ability to take a raw piece of material and create a work of art, whether it be a sculpture, toy, or a piece of furniture. They bring it to life with a warmth and personality, which not only expresses the feelings of the craftsman but also the personality of the wood.

If you can provide new jobs for Ontario's youth, Ontario will help pay their salaries.

If you operate a business in Ontario and create new jobs between May 5 and October 26, 1980, you may apply to the Ontario Youth Employment Program for a grant of $1.25 an hour (up to a maximum of $50.00 a week) towards the wages of each eligible youth you hire for those jobs.

Here's how OYEP can help. OYEP was designed both for you and young people who want to work. It enables you to hire young people between the ages of 15 and 24 to do extra work for you while we help to pay their salaries.

The maximum grant allows you up to 6,000 man hours of help at each location where application for employment has been made. For example, you could hire 10 young people for 15 weeks each, or 15 young people for 10 weeks each. You must hire each young person for an average of 25 hours of supervised employment per week for at least six weeks.

Eligible employers.
You may be an eligible employer if you have been actively engaged in business in Ontario for at least one year prior to May 5, 1980. This is a requirement for each location where you would like to hire.

Eligible employees.

The young people you would like to hire must be between the ages of 15 and 24. They must reside and be eligible to work in Ontario. They must not be related to the employer as defined in the Ontario Youth Employment Act.

OYEP works for all of us.

Province of Ontario

All jobs must be new.

To be eligible for funding, a position created must be in addition to regular and seasonal employment normally provided during the 25 week program period. This may mean special projects in the office, general repairs, research and so on.

Apply early.

Grant funds are limited. Deadline date for applications is July 2, 1980, or earlier if all funds have been allocated. Submit your application as soon as possible. Before you hire, make sure you have written approval.

Trials of a first time woodburner:

I would have thrown my new airtight stove out the window

by Pauline Fedeski

At this time of year one recalls some of the splendours of adolescence not necessarily always to do with a young man's fancy. One of mine was arriving home from Guide Camp with so many proficiency badges that my sleeves were only just long enough to accommodate them.

Today, I'd have to hand in my semaphore badge, and I've forgotten how to tie a sheep-shank, but down the years I maintained the belief that given a piece of paper, a match and a few twigs, I could not fail to light a fire...at least until last November...when alas, it seemed my campfire badge would also have to go. Suddenly, the ability to light a fire hot enough to evaporate the rain that poured relentlessly into the soup had deserted me...

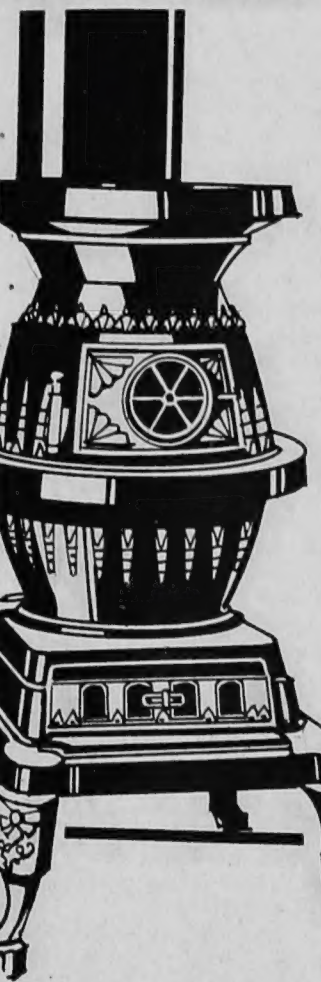

I could not keep a fire burning in my new airtight stove.

I have survived the winter. Raccoons are staggering around sleepily, the moles are practicing making mole-hills in the melting snow, soon there will be pussy-willows, birds returning, and bears will be waking up any day now.

It has been a time of trial by ice for me and not as much fire as I had hoped for, but for those who are thinking of buying an airtight wood stove ready for next winter, here are the ruminations of a novice woodswoman.

My good friend and neighbour, Fred, is a veteran woodswoman. He bought an airtight stove in 1978. Fred is a man who has since his early childhood in Peterborough, Ontario, been engaged in a tough but happy battle with the elements, and he has laughed his way through many worse winters than this one. In Haliburton County where kindness still comes naturally, Fred, and his widowed sister Stella, personify the word, and although they are retired now, Stella has never been able to persuade Fred to lay down his arms and retreat to Florida. Luckily for me, because without Stella's muffins and Fred's stories recalling the comic aspects of life among the poor or deprived of Peterborough and the east end of Toronto in the thirties, my winter sojourn here would have been as bleak as the siege of Lenin-grad.

Under the circumstances then, for me to pass a derogatory comment about Fred's airtight stove would be churlish, but I have to admit that when I first saw it I thought it was totally devoid of any kind of charm...it fairly bulged with heat, but to me, it looked like a dark, satanic loo with the lid down. Visitors were warned not to sit too close to it, or as Fred would say, 'It'll roast the hide off ya.'

Last November, I was living in an unheated, uninsulated summer cottage with a northern Ontario winter coming on. I was sure I was no dilettante tinkering with a trend, but if there were more seductive stoves available, I preferred not to spend long, dark months in the company of an infernal-looking model like Fred's. I was warned not to become infatuated with one bigger than I needed however, or the heat would be excessive it it were to be kept at full capacity to prevent creosote building up in the chimney.

Unlike Fred, I had no back-up oil heat, and I was anxious to make the right purchase from every point of view. So I asked him, was it true, did an airtight stove really stay in all night? He looked almost offended.

'Tellya,' he said, all I do is open the draft, throw a piece of paper on the embers, chuck in a big log, and WHOOF...it goes like Sam Scratch.' To emphasize the point, he added with a chuckle, 'Y' could burn a body in it.'

There followed many December mornings when, if I had been able to control my frozen limbs, I would have hurled my new, aesthetically pleasing, neat and unobtrusive little airtight wood stove out of the frozen-up window.

Fred arrived early every day to see if I had survived the night, bearing cedar sticks and all his old newspapers, which on my wilderness scale of values was roughly equivalent to a dozen roses. (Before I'd even read the horoscopes in mine they were put to the match). He was sympathetic, but firm. 'These damn stoves are all different, he said. You just gotta be patient... Rome wasn't burnt in a day y'know...and here, use dry kindling.'

I failed to see how the kindling could have been much dryer having already lit the fire three times with the same pieces of wood, but to Fred it was the only explanation.

I had another one. I had given appearance too high a priority. I have never dared ask a man who is married to a stunning-looking woman, whether on the question of beauty versus utility he has an opinion, but I remember reading somewhere that when you want a good horse you should look for the one with a backside like a pastry cook. It is sufficient to say that while on my knees among smouldering sticks of Yorkshire frugality to reject the abundant dry brush outside-gathered in the fall and tied into bundles. It started with a roar alright, but it just as quickly subsided with a whimper leaving nothin behind. I had to arrive at a successful formula based on the size, the density, the flammability, and the amount of wood and paper per square inch of interior stove space, by a process of trial and error. Quite simply, lots of brittle cedar and a New York Times.

The door of my little stove is ten inches square and the bottom edge of it is eight inches from the floor, so it has helped to be manually dextrous and blessed with unimpaired knees and hips. Furthermore, since the inside measurement from front to back is 29 inches, I have learned to live with the fact derella will burn almost anything - green or otherwise - Fred says, and I believe him, that he never stops thinking about his wood supply. He mentally inventories every log and he knows to the day when he must lay in a new supply of wood ready to be cut and dried before his old stock runs low.

With my stove, forward planning is even more dismally essential, and I say dismally, because I am not very good at it otherwise I probably wouldn't be wintering here in Haliburton County, but I have rolled away my Willow, Poplar, and Basswood and use only dry Oak, Beech, Yellow Birch and Maple which I know my little stove will digest without a fight...and late in life I've become an expert at spotting the rotters. Every 20 minutes during the day I check the position of the burning logs in case they have shrunk away from each other. I remove the dead ash in the front of the firebox and scrape the live embers forward to catch the draft which enters through the inside bottom of the door. Many of my earlier troubles were caused by differences in the roof levels. The chimney did not extend far enough above the highest of them even though the stove was under the lowest. This and the surrounding trees which were interfering with the free flow of air, doused my fire with downdrafts. I am a little obsessive about the draft. If there is too much, the logs hyperventilate; if not enough, they suffocate.

My children are all grown up now, but looking back to the days of their infancy, I'm charcoal and down to the last match, Fred's dark satanic loo was changing, before my eyes, into a golden Adonis.

During the intervening months, my stove and I have warmed to each other somewhat. I have learned that, like humans, they are what they eat, and I have had to accept that mine is a gourmand and a temperamental one at that.

To start a fire and keep it going demands patience and no compromises. It hurt my that all my sweaters, whatever their original colour, have a charred right sleeve.

I am told that it takes about a year from the grape to a bottle of Beaujolais, and as long to age a log for my stove, but the conviction is growing that by the time I have handled a living tree to the point where it is the right size and shape for my stove, I shall have aged with considerably more speed.

COUNTY ECHO FAMILY

Senior League

by Linda English

We were pleased to welcome Mrs. Priddy and Doris Vaughn to our fun and fitness program on Monday morning. Later on in the afternoon, the ladies worked on their crafts while the men had a game of carpet bowling.

Rev. and Mrs. Merv Kurtz held service in the chapel on Tuesday. They sang two beautiful inspirational hymns which our residents enjoyed very much.

Later in the afternoon, several residents enjoyed two very interesting movies. Boating safety and security showed us the way to boat safely. This film reminded us that summer is just around the corner.

New Zealand - My Way, took us on a visit to New Zealand, where we saw some great sheep herds. The wool from the sheep, is the main industry on this small island. We also witnessed the erupting of a volcano. The steam is used to make electricity. The scenery in this film was beautiful.

Thursday afternoon, the ladies of the Allsaw Mission, brought a lovely assortment of sandwiches and goodies for the tea party. The residents enjoyed visiting with the ladies, and chatting with little Dionna Warburton, who had some very interesting things to say.

Friday afternoon, we enjoyed the toe-tapping piano music of Ray Jenkins. Mr. Jenkins played some old familiar tunes that all our residents remembered and they told me they enjoyed every minute of his playing. We are pleased to welcome Mr. Morley Sipe to our home.

We sincerely hope that Morley will enjoy his stay with us.

Markie Brohm, of Haliburton, was one of about 35 children that came to register for kindergarten at Victoria Street School, last Friday.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

All of the crocus have signalled their intention to come up six feet in front of the middle of each resident's window. Those that are in flower now are very pretty and cute.

The ladies, Flossie Burk, Myrtle Millburn, Hazel Parish and Lila Simmons in the guidance and help of Amelia Sibley, Lillian Hague, Pearl Scholer and Pat Burk director, all but made a quilt Monday afternoon. They use tie downs instead of quilting at the finish.

The recently acquired communion set donated by the Vickery family and Marion Donaldson in memory of Halda Dean a former resident, will be on display at the Rails' End Gallery.

The crocus are in nice display around the Extendicare building in assorted colors, mauve, yellow, orange and white, a stock we bought from Campbell's Garden Centre of Minden. It is nice that they are so hardy.

That massive bamboo fern that George and Edna Tipton gave us, as from the Minden Horticultural Society did not look quite right, so we tipped the root ball out of the pot to find simply a mass of roots. We plan to use an electric carving knife, if someone lends us one and cut it down four square to the centre and pot it in four separate pots, instead of buying an unmanageably large unwieldy one. It may result in four nice bamboo ferns instead of one. Ferns only propagate by spores or root division.

We seem to harp a lot on the use of wood as fuel as is or in pellets, for home heat or for the generation of power. We have much unemployment and what is nicer than the fresh air of the bush. It could make Ontario's forests fire repellent, the potash ash could be the answer to our acid lakes and it could make us energy self sufficient. The ash may be found to be a storehouse of much needed chemicals, and could be the interest and envy of the world. At the same time all the Hydro right of ways could be grazed instead of poisoned.

This time last year come time to water the many seedlings without a dribble on the floor our plants and flowers program came close to being scuttled. This year the problem arises again and being determined if possible, to avoid dribble we arrived on what we thought was a happy solution, a fountain syringe, a fountain head - a length of latex tubing, and a tiny controllable nozzle. We have a hook for the head on the planter, if we ever get the gadget. First we asked Dr. Hartwick, Tuesday, if we could get one and he replied, "Certainly, there is lots of the latex tubing at the hospital doing nothing and from time to time is thrown out. I will ask the secretary here to phone the hospital" and he abruptly left and went to Donna Dillon's office, the time being around noon.

About 4 p.m. not getting any word we called the hospital and what a surprise we got. They not only did not know us but from their voice on the phone left us feeling stunned. Why this occurred we haven't the faintest idea. With this hospital brush-off in mind, we went to one of the pharmacies for the same purpose and from the smirk on that pharmacist it boded no good. All we could get out of him was a promise to think it over. A phone call the next morning found that he had forgotten all about it and refused to sell. Such a kettle of fish is hard to believe as happening in Haliburton. That same morning we had made a circuit of some of the hardware stores to learn if we could find an oil can that would deliver a measured amount of water. It was surprising to us to get the whole-hearted co-operation and interest to not only show them but to demonstrate them with water at our request, at Black's, Nancy's Flowers, and Western Tire. We will probably continue to dribble.

Nancy Picard and Peggy Neville gave us another delightful evening Thursday, playing and singing the old favourites.

Rev. Trevor Denny of St. George's Anglican Church was the spiritual leader for the Friday morning devotional period, Flossie Burk was pianist. This being April, the sure none of them was ever as energy-consuming as my little wood stove. It will brook no neglect...if I go out, it does too. If crammed full of maple at midnight, it might go without a night feed, but then I'd be so nervous I would have to sleep in the outhouse in case the cottage burned down. Instead, I rise at 3 a.m. before hypothermia sets in, to give it a log. This keeps it quiet and the heat remains at a temperate level. Much of my time is spent twirling knobs, opening and closing, adjusting and scraping, hauling logs and kindling and washing my hands. Day and night.

Now that I am well acquainted with the Sisyphian lifestyle of a woodswoman, cherished myths have been shattered and resignation has followed. In a dozen winters I shall not write a novel - my fingerails are too ingrained with soot and sawdust to knead my own dough, and 20 minutes on the quilt is almost more than I can hope for.

A delightful view over pristine winter wilderness deserves more attention than I have had time to give, although it's some kind of comfort to know that it will be here again next year - but in the final analysis, one has to conclude that at minus 25C., the beautiful, (to say nothing of the comfortable and the profitable), is indeed difficult to attainment...unless of course, one has made a pact with the devil and has turned back to a good, old fashioned, oil furnace. After all, even Fred the wise, has not washed his hands of heating oil yet, whereas here in Haliburton County, I am looking forward to a very early spring.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

While walking to church on Easter morning it was a moving experience to look up in the sky in a south-easterly direction and see a large cross that had been made by vapour trails from an airplane. A lovely bright, sunny day for sky writing and a most appropriate symbol for the time of the year that Christians were celebrating.

Eighteen ladies attended the Norland Women's Institute supper and annual meeting in the W.I. hall on Monday, April 7. Following a delicious meal that was prepared by the ladies of the losing attendance contest team, the roll call was answered with a written idea for a roll call or motto for 1980-81's programmes.

Mrs. Patricia Watson was re-elected as president and Mrs. Betty Davey as vice-president as was secretary-treasurer Mrs. Jean Stewart. Mrs. Eleanor Crane was elected second vice-president, and Mrs. Leona Fountain, district director. Branch directors are Mrs. Grace Graham, Mrs. Fae Quinn and Mrs. Isabella Kilpatrick. Auditors are Mrs. Eleanor Crane and Mrs. Betty Davey and trustees - Mrs. Hazel Gostlin and Mrs. Jean Stewart. Conveners of standing committees as follows: Family and Consumer Affairs - Mrs. Fae Quinn; Education and Cultural Activities - Mrs. Barbara Maunder; Citizenship and World Affairs - Mrs. Phyllis LeCraw; Resolutions - Mrs. Elizabeth Fryer and Agriculture and Canadian Industries - Mrs. Dorothy Brown.

The annual district meeting of Victoria East Women's Institute will be on Thursday, May 22 in Fenelon Falls United Church and the theme will be "What does the role of the Women's Institute mean to you?" in keeping with this being the year of the Women's Institute. The summary day for the projects completed in the crewl embroidery classes is on Thursday, May 29 in the Government Agricultural Building, Kent Street, Lindsay with the crafts on display from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and a special program planning in the afternoon. Everyone is invited to attend.

The next Norland W.I. meeting is Monday, May 5 at 8:00 p.m. in W.I. Hall, when an auction sale of plants and good used articles will be held. A cordial invitation is extended to all who would be interested in attending. A reminder to all of the ladies to bring their finished crewl embroidery pieces to this meeting where they will be displayed.

Visitors to Elliot Lake over the Easter weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ferguson of Head Lake and their granddaughter and her husband, Alberta and Grant Williams. They were the guests of the Ferguson's daughter, Jacqueline and her husband Mervin Robinson.

Two recent winners of Norland firefighters' hockey pool were Harvey Greer on Saturday, March 29 and Fay Brown on April 5.

As I mentioned in my February 27 column, an American published draft horse magazine "The Everer" had an article and pictures of the Norland firefighters' horse draw that took place in Ingram Memorial Park last July. Ingram and Isabel Wessell, who subscribe to this bi-monthly magazine, have graciously loaned their copy of this issue and it will be in the township office for the next couple of weeks if anyone would like to look at it. Copies of "The Everer" are available from the publishers at $2 a copy and if you would like one, details are available from the township clerk, Vern LeCraw. The area is indebted to Mr. John Stephens who was vacationing in the area at the time of the horse draw and took the pictures and wrote the article for this American publication. Our thanks, too, to the Wessells for letting us borrow their copy for awhile.

Nearly every seat was filled at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay on Thursday, April 10 when Dennis Cooper presented his travelogue of Hawaii. Anyone who has ever visited this American state will know of its lovely scenery, sandy beaches, blue water, warm weather and sunshine. Mr. Cooper succeeded very well in capturing these things in his photography of these enchanting islands. We saw and heard about the black sand beaches near Hilo on the Big Island (Hawaii), the pineapple pickers in the fields of the island of Lanai, the volcanoes on Maui Island where nearby the very rare plant, silver sword grows, Kauai Island and the boat trip to Fern Grotto, where musicians sang the Hawaiian wedding song, Pearl Harbour and some of the historical background of that fateful day in December was described as well as the beautiful memorial park with its 30,000 graves near Waikiki on Oahu Island. We viewed board and body surfing, sailing, hang gliding, the rugged Nepali coast of Maui by helicopter and back packing as well as hula dancing, waterfalls, lush foliage, flowers, brightly coloured birds and much, much, more. All in all, a very delightful way to end the travelogue series for this year. Although their expenses will be higher next year, the Rotary Club is not planning to change the price of their subscription tickets (6 admissions for $12). As they ask "How many countries can you visit for $2?" They would appreciate your support by attending and buying these tickets, the proceeds are used to promote local recreational activities, help crippled children and other projects.

Remember Saturday, April 19 from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m., Joan Purvis and group, Black Gold, will be playing for dancing at the Ladies Auxiliary of the firemen's dance in Norland Community Hall. The bar will be licenced under L.L.B.O., a smorgasbord lunch will be served and tickets are only $4 per person. Come out and join your friends for a fun evening.

The Norland Water Works Association has just recently purchased and installed a new chlorinator on the local pump that supplies water to Norland homes. Since the other chlorinator wasn't functioning properly, it is going to be sent out for a check-up and overhaul, after which there will, hopefully, be a spare one in the event of a breakdown.

Stanhope Notes

by Alex Stevenson

Stanhope Airport Committee advise that they are having a dance on April 26, at Stanhope firefighters' community hall. The purpose of the dance is to raise funds to help meet the cost of holding the fly-in at Stanhope Airport on June 15. Always a popular event in Stanhope, the fly-in committee are busy with plans for this year and while no firm program has yet been arranged, the committee state that the program will be up to a high standard.

On the matter of airport activity there is a very serious effort on foot to establish a parachute school at Stanhope airport, and since the principles involved have a high record of achievement in this field it can be considered an interesting possibility. Incidentally, anyone wishing information re the dance should call Stan Moore or Derek Rolfe or Mrs. Pam Rolfe.

We recently received a letter from Dr. Tom Brydges of the Water Quality Branch of the Ontario Ministry of the Environment, in which he discussed the acid rain situation at some length. It was encouraging to find that Dr. Brydges, who is dedicated to preserving the lakes and the life in them, is of the opinion that there is little reason for panic in this area. Dr. Brydges is firmly of the opinion that the only real solution of the acid rain problem is by means of control of emissions at the source, but until that time comes limiting of the seriously effected lakes will have a place in the efforts to preserve the threatened waters. But proper control will have to be exercised in the introduction of this material to the lakes. It is our feeling that with Dr. Brydges' involvement in the subject, our lakes have a very knowledgeable and concerned champion.

Thanks to the hard working M.P.P. FOR Victoria-Haliburton, Mr. John Ekins, we received a very interesting and complete report on the subject of "alcohol fuel - an energy alternative for Ontario". We do not make any pretence at having the academic or professional background to deal with this subject, but a reading and a re-reading of this report convinces us that there is much in it that should be of interest to those politicians who have more in their minds than simply party considerations. It is possible that Ontario, faced with a ten billion dollar outlay in 1990 for imported oil, could save at least 25 percent of this amount and keep it right in the province. Thousands of jobs could be provided, and a crippling shortage of oil avoided by developing a program now, to meet the needs of the 1990's. Don't laugh at that 1990's figure, I know that many of us now here won't be too likely to be around at that time, (each phase of our existence becomes more interesting as time goes by), but our successors could be wondering why a generation like ours failed to take the steps needed to guarantee them against a life lacking in transportation, oil heating or some other uses provided by oil as we now know it. We are referring to a scheme to make Ontario partly self sufficient by using one of the greatest natural resources - wood. The fairly recent development of a hybrid poplar tree seems to offer the way to an economic development that could make the production of synthetic fuel a serious possibility, and we hope one that Haliburton loggers and woodlot operators would consider seriously for the future of Ontario and perhaps their own interest. We will have more on this subject as we study it further and have the input of more qualified people. Don't forget the airport committee dance - call now.

Wilberforce News

by Winnie Schofield

Ken Sanderson, Pat Deschamps and Ben Waterton, representatives for the new Bowes and Cocks office, were delighted with the interest shown by the public during their recent open house ceremonies. Many visitors took advantage of the opportunity to look over the office and talk to the staff. Keith Tallman, our reeve, was on hand to cut the ribbon and Murray Agnew was called upon to draw the winning ticket for an electric coffee maker, the lucky winner being Mrs. Linda Nottage.

Canon Moore Smith has arranged an interesting program for families who feel the need to draw closer to God and who desire baptism or confirmation. St. Margaret's Anglican Church will welcome Bishop Reed when he arrives here on Thursday, April 17. Service will take place at 7:30 in the evening. Families will be able to renew their marriage vows, make their commitment to Christ and take part in Holy Communion.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith of Elephant Lake Lodge very kindly made available their comfortable lodge for the annual Wilberforce Curling Club social evening. First event was club business. Phyllis Gallen, secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the previous meeting then presented the financial statement. The club is in sound condition but more members would be welcomed to insure future stability.

The 1980 slate of officers chosen were Tony Berning for president, Phyllis Gallen - secretary-treasurer, directors - Roberta Walsh, Mike Collins, Pat Patton, Fred Berning.

A presentation was made to Joan and Chuck Lindsay on the occasion of their proposed move to Eganville. Having been members of the club from its beginning, these two fine curlers will be missed and the club is sorry to lose them.

Trophies were presented and Fred Berning was called upon to accept a gift from the members in acknowledgement of his dedication to the job of making the Wilberforce Curling Club the best in Ontario. Fred's fame has spread resulting in several offers from other envious rinks. Offers which we hope he will be able to refuse so that we can continue to brag about our superior ice quality.

The fitness class, held Wednesday afternoons in the Memorial Centre during the winter months, has enjoyed an increase in membership. A variety of age groups have been taking part in this popular program. Badminton, ping pong and exercises are part of the routine. Mike Collins has donated a new ping pong table to keep the action going. This gift was greatly appreciated by all members, especially Donna Herbert and Jackie Atkinson who welcome new members and tend to the management details.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Maggie McMahon is still a patient in a Peterborough hospital. It is to be hoped that she will regain good health and soon be with us again.

At the Legion Hall on Sunday afternoon the room was filled with friends and relatives who came to wish Ann Tallman good luck in her chosen future. She received very many lovely gifts and will be able to set up house-keeping well equipped. The room has been nicely decorated and refreshments were on hand for the guests.

Chatting with Irene

My goodness but time does fly. By the time you read this column (if you do), April will be half over.

I have been looking at the almanac and so far this month it has been fairly accurate; and for this week it says the same as the weather announcers that we will get some sun. So far the rain this past week has helped take all the frost out of the ground, so be careful where you walk or your shoes will squish.

Mrs. Cora Hewitt is home after spending a week visiting the Frank Addison family in Toronto.

Did you know that a potato is an excellent source of Vitamin C? So are turnips, spinach, and canned tomatoes. Or have a glass of orange juice, tomato juice or vitaminized apple juice. It helps cut down on vitamin pills for we all have potatoes and most of the other things in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Monk and family are home after a lovely holiday in Texas.

Maple syrup time has come and nearly gone again; it's a nice time of the year to be out in the bush with the smell of boiling sap and the fragrance from the wood burning in the air, also the visiting birds near.

Bob and Gladys Nelson of Oshawa were Easter Sunday guests with her sister Kathleen and Herb Bates, also Ken was home for the weekend.

Congratulations to my dearest dad who celebrated his 75th birthday last Thursday.

Best wishes to Debbie and Glen Anderson of Lindsay "nee" Billings, who were married recently.

Her many school friends mourned the sudden, accidental death of Christine Marie Drach at Lakeland, Florida last week. Marie was just sixteen, a student at Fenelon Falls High School and beloved by many. Marie lived with her family at "The Pines" Shell Gas Station at the Glenarm Road and corner of Hwy. 35. Many of her friends from here paid their respects at the Ilman Platten Funeral Home in Fenelon Falls and attended the funeral service on Friday.

Last Monday afternoon, the Bexley Fire Department was called out to extinguish a bad grass fire on Baseline Road about a mile off Hwy. 35. The fire threatened the home of the Paul Angiers. Apparently someone was burning rubbish when the fire got out of hand. It was not Paul who set the fire but because of the direction of the wind, the fire spread to his property.

Mrs. Jean Shields of Grandy Road is a patient in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, where she has undergone surgery. I'm sure a card would cheer her at this time.

The Kinettes are going to celebrate their 20th anniversary on May 3 at the community centre. For this big event the Kinettes will be selling "Advance Tickets" only. There will be cocktails at 6 p.m.; dinner at 7 p.m. and the dance after; all for $20 a couple. Want a different dish made with ham? Try Mandarin Ham loaf: 2 eggs slightly beaten; 2 cups soft bread crumbs; 2 tbs. minced onion; 1 tbs. mustard; 1 (11 oz.) can mandarin oranges (save ½ cup of the juice) when you drain the sections, 1 tsp. salt; 1/8 tsp. pepper; 3 cups ground cooked ham; 2 tbs. brown sugar.

Combine eggs, bread crumbs, onion, mustard, juice, salt and pepper. Mix well; add ground ham, mix well. Place orange segments in lightly greased 9" X 5" loaf pan. Sprinkle brown sugar over the oranges, then pack the ham mixture into the pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from oven, pour off fat. Let set for 5 minutes then unmold onto serving platter. More orange segments may be placed on top when loaf is served if desired. Serves 4 to 6 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Stamp and sons spent the weekend in Oshawa with Mr. Glenn Stamp.

A long time ago while "Party Game" was still on in the afternoon, I sent in a charade, then forgot all about it until about a month and a half ago, I received a letter saying my charade had been accepted, and to please let them know if my address was the same. I quickly wrote back telling them it was still the same. Last week I received another letter telling me that I would receive 10 prizes from 10 different companies for my winning charade. Now all I have to do is wait. Oh well, they say patience is a virtue. As my prizes come in I will let you know what they are; but if it takes as long to get the prizes as it did to get the letter it will be a long, long time. Frankly, it took me a long time to even remember what the charade was.

Weekend visitors with the Harrold Coulters were Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Francis and family of Oshawa, also Mr. and Mrs. Phil Corby, Terry and Lisa of Ajax.

Contrary to popular belief, there are still a few no-no's. Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Kernohan were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Graham; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barkwell, all of Huntsville, also Mr. and Mrs. Bud Kernohan of Oshawa and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sisson of Lindsay.

St. Paul's ACW have started planning their summer bazaar which will be held on July 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Sears and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warburton and family visited with Mrs. Harold Sears, also Mr. and Mrs. H. Lovegrove and family at Dorset on Sunday.

You have no doubt noticed all the fill being put along the shore in the park. Mr. Ingram Wessell and his heavy equipment have dumped some 80 loads of fill which will be levelled off as soon as the frost is out of the ground. This will make about 140 feet more of safe beach area. The Parks and Recreation Committee are responsible for this work but this is for the benefit of the whole township. As soon as weather permits, the area will be roped off to a safe depth. Applications were advertised for a swimming instructor and one will be chosen today, April 12. Registration for lessons will be held at the Lions Hall on Saturday, June 14. Registration for the several classes and fees are as follows - Pre-Beginners and Beginners - $10; Junior-Intermediate and Senior - $15.

Hopefully, there will be a Bronze class for seniors which will cost $20. Those graduating from the Bronze class will qualify as life-guard, etc. Also, hopefully, there will be a class for children who will be five years old before the end of the year. For young parents or parents of young children interested in the water safety programme, phone the president, Ruby Powell at 454-3510 or Charlene Cross, the secretary-treasurer at 454-8778.

The water safety programme is always looking for ways and means to raise money and will be holding a bake sale on Saturday, May 17 on the main street in the morning. If you enjoy baking, make an extra cake or pie and donate to this worthy cause.

The Masonic Lodge held their annual banquet and meeting last Monday evening, April 7 in the United Church hall. Some 75 Masons enjoyed a delicious meal. The District deputy from Sunderland was in attendance.

The annual convention was held at Faith Tabernacle prior to Easter, with the annual Good Friday Rally. The afternoon speaker was Rev. Abbott and Rev. Joe Moore for the convention. Good Friday saw a packed out meeting with special singing, etc.

April showers bring May flowers, and after the last few days, surely, the flowers will soon come forth. Weather still a bit cool to think of gardening or raking the lawn.

The snoop agreed that those were not taxable.

Kinmount Korner

by Millie Moss

I hope everyone had as pleasant an Easter as I had. I just stayed around home with grandson Jason as house guest from Good Friday to Easter Sunday to keep things moving. He and I went to church and wasn't it nice to see all seats taken? Should be so every Sunday.

Son Bill and his wife Lorrie arrived, back from Toronto and had Easter dinner with us before taking our boy back home. That is when I started to sit and just do nothing. As I said "pleasant"!.

Some time this summer, we will have some new residents in Kinmount, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hynes. At present, they live in Toronto but will be retiring here to the home they purchased next door to our house. They were Saturday guests of Bertha, Bill and Keith Stata at their home in town and are looking forward to living here. A warm welcome is extended to them and hope they'll be very happy here for many years to come.

I had a friendly chat with "The Old Country Chimney Sweep" this a.m. and he told me that Peterborough is going to be or already is giving the word that building permits must be obtained to install a wood burning unit as there have been six fires in that area due to ill-maintained wood stoves. I was also told that fire insurance companies are starting to crack down because of very poor maintenance of wood burners and the fact that there have been fires due to soot build-up in the stoves and chimneys. A number of fires from this cause being reported from the Stoney Lake region. The Chimney Sweep by the way, is Mr. Walter Dobrow and can be reached at his home in Fenelon Falls or at (705) 324-8989.

Thankyou very much to that beautiful Easter Bunny who so thoughtfully left a number of us (me included), a very nice prayer plant. I'll treasure it!

Ruth Menard and I, on our way home from Bobcaygeon, last Monday night, caught sight of a fawn. What a beautiful thing it was, to see the wee creature standing right in a driveway, near the road, nibbling at something on the ground. Wonder if mother knew the young one was out at that late hour?

Trucks and tractors were along our roads on Tuesday wetting and sweeping the signs of winter away.

Congratulations to Bonnie on her new job.

Thanks Yvonne D. for your kind words.

Bill Moss, Norland, was in Toronto again on Monday.

I heard last week a man had gone missing but heard today he'd been found and that is absolutely all I could find out about this happening but whoever he is, thank God he was found and is safe.

Congratulations to Eleanor Lycop of South Porcupine on her bingo win of $110 at Woodville on Monday night. Eleanor is daughter to Gerrie and Dave Crichton of R.R. #1, Coboconk.

Rain on Tuesday night certainly brought the toads out onto the roads.

Sorry to hear Gerrie Crichton, R.R. #1, "Coby" is still sick. Jack Pyke, Norland, is not well and will be going for x-rays next week; Ruth Menard, Kinmount, still has her cold; my hubby is complaining of a sore back; Margaret Kylie, Kinmount is out and around but tells me her neck and arm still aren't back to normal after her recent fall; Tom Ludlow, Coboconk, recently came home from hospital and is still not in tip-top shape.

To all of you, who in one way or another is under the weather these days: "The Sun Still Shines" - Lift up your eyes - And look beyond - Dark clouds to Heaven's blue. The shadowed moment soon will pass. The sun still shines for you! May He whose love can shine right through - When clouds are dull and gray, Send heavenly sunshine that will bring - Improving health today.

Ida and Clyde Pardy, Coboconk, were guests at our house, Wednesday evening. Ida, being the congenial lady at the office in Balsam Lake Provincial Park and Clyde, being your friendly neighbourhood home decorator.

I enjoyed our nice chat on the phone, Ruby. It's always nice talking to a friend.

Ruby Schell spent Sunday as a guest at the home of Bertha, Bill and Keith Stata of Kinmount, while Betty and John Lonsdale of R.R. 1, Kinmount were Saturday visitors to Ruby's house.

Most sincere sympathy goes out to the Drach family, Fenelon Falls, on the sudden death of their 16 year old daughter, on their way home from the south, due to an auto accident.

My apologies to the ladies who asked me for a recipe last week. I did send it but my column was cut, due, I suppose, to lack of space. Sorry about that girls and now I don't even remember which one it was but if you'll give me a call at 488-2399 we'll give it another try. In the meantime give this one a try: It's quick and easy and are kind of a cross between a tea biscuit and a sweet bun - Oven 450 degrees F. - time 15 minutes - Cream ¼ cup butter and ½ cup sugar together and add 1 egg and 1 tsp. vanilla. Mix 3 cups flour and 5 tsp. baking powder and throw in a good fistful of raisins and stir them in. Add the dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup of milk to the creamed mixture. Roll out gently or part to the thickness of bun you want (1½ or 2 inches is good) and cut with floured cookie cutter. They're really good! Of course, you could do it the way I do, throw it all into the bowl, mix well, cut with juice glass dipped in flour. They come out good and saves a lot of time.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bamford spent Easter with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Armstrong of Toronto.

Glad to see Mike Schlosser home again from Lindsay hospital after his recent heart attack. Take it easy, Mike!

Harold and Flo Merritt of Arthur, Ontario, Allen and Jean Scarlett along with daughters Rhonda and Peggy and Jerry McLean, Oshawa, Ontario, were recent guests at the home of Clara and Ambrose Watson, in Kinmount.

Congratulations go out to the Bowmanville Major Pee Wee hockey team in their winning of the "All Ontario Championship", taking it in four straight, from Stoney Creek. Gregory, son of Philip and Karen Watson, Oshawa, also grandson of Ambrose and Clara Watson and Herb and Olive Wilson of Kinmount, plays on the team. Good work boys, we're proud of you.

The Watson's spent a couple of days with daughter, Charlene and Steven Fountain of Oshawa.

Euchre scores at the Galway fire hall were men's low, Harry Stuart, men's low, Jack Shedden; ladies' high, Ida Young; ladies' low, Ken Stuart. The men who attend the Wednesday night euchre, are planning a pot luck supper for the ladies, as their way of saying "thanks" to the girls, who provided sandwiches and cakes through the year. The last euchre will be held April 30 and hopefully, will continue in the fall of 1980.

Bill Holstock suffered a serious fall in his home recently but was fortunate in that he was in the company at the time, of Ray Morrow, a former ambulance attendant. Several stitches were required to close a facial wound but Bill is trying to smile and is most grateful to have such wonderful friends and neighbours.

Brian and Gloria Tassel (nee Hobbs) have returned from lovely Bermuda. It was Gloria's first flight and she loved the landings.

Mitzi and Adolph Alzner are enjoying the company of their granddaughter, Christine will be with her grandparents for two weeks and is really enjoying the bunnies.

A sing song was enjoyed at Crystal Pier Marina last weekend. Ida Young at the piano keyboard and Brenda Catton, on guitar. Ken Young sang bass and Yvonne Dyer is still not sure what she was singing but Ken urged her on and even Natasha got into the act. It was a delightful evening and there should be more sing-songs.

The ice has left Crystal Lake and soon we'll be hearing the boats. Summer is fast approaching.

Welcome home to Marguerite Curtin who is enjoying the steady stream of friends dropping by to say "hi". She was truly missed.

Mrs. Nancy Matheson, bingo chairperson at the Canadian Legion in Coboconk, was recipient of a letter of thanks this week, from Mrs. Valerie Shepherd, coordinator of the "Meals on Wheels" project. The letter states that right now "there

Dorset News

"Every 'Estimate' should be compelled by law to include a footnote estimating how much more than the estimate the final bill will be."

The ice is finally looking very black and porous and we are hoping that it disintegrates in a hurry. The water in the lakes has risen very quickly after being very low, to the point where wells were drying up and water pipes that ran into the lake were above water level, leaving people without a water supply. We wonder if the sudden change in water level is due to the rain we have had or if it is controlled by the authorities. It is said that there is still so much frost in the ground that it can't absorb the water so, it goes into the streams and lakes and also into people's basements. People have had water in their basements this year for the first time, which in some cases is quite a number of years. But we don't have any real complaints weatherwise, considering what they have had in other parts of the country.

We send get well wishes from the community to Sheila Tappin who is a patient in Soldiers Memorial Hospital, Orillia.

A number of families took advantage of the nice weather over the Easter weekend to open up their cottages for the season.

A number of Dorset residents enjoyed the Maplefest at Doug Cunningham's sugar bush on Easter Sunday. They report a wonderful time and a feast of pancakes and maple syrup and sausages. There was a candy hunt for the children and taffy in the snow. There was also a bake table which was very popular and home-made ice cream was made and served at the sight. The old-fashioned way of making maple syrup was demonstrated. Hundreds of people from Huntsville, Baysville, Dwight, Dorset and surrounding area attended and had a happy, fun-filled day as well as having their appetites well satisfied making the event a great success.

This isn't a first but is a bit unusual. Marg and Art Walkden of Paint Lake Road were having a friendly game of cribbage and Marg was losing (as usual, Marg says) when she picked up her hand and had 29, a perfect hand. She still lost the game but was thrilled with the experience.

A number of ladies, mostly mothers, have volunteered to go into the Dorset school for one half-day a week as parent helpers to assist the teachers. Their function will be to spend time with youngsters who need extra help with some of their subjects and from time to time supervise a class while the teacher is concentrating on the other classes in her room. The staff think this will be a great help to the children.

A rubbing of vinegar will remove fruit stains from hands. It will also eliminate nasty food odors such as fish, garlic or onion.

Intended for last week

"There is wisdom in taking the time to care, there is wisdom in giving and wanting to share, there is wisdom in grace and making amends, there is wisdom in having and keeping good friends."

The Dorset Senior Club had a pleasant afternoon last week when they visited the Frost Centre. They started out with lunch in the cafeteria then over to the Administration Building where Mr. George Hamilton, the Director, addressed the group, explaining how the centre is operated among other things. Then they were shown nature slides of wild flowers and animals. They were taken on a tour of the wildlife room and explanations of various fish and animal habits and natural habitat were given. The group was then taken by bus to the sugar bush where they saw the operation of the syrup making apparatus, after which they returned to the centre where they relaxed over coffee before returning home.

Here's your chance to get that winter sludge cleaned off your car. On Saturday, April 12 the Pathfinders are holding a car wash at the Dorset Garage from 10 to 3 o'clock. $3 gets your car cleaned inside and out, so take advantage of this opportunity and help a good cause.

Our kindest thoughts, our prayers and best wishes for a speedy recovery are extended to several members of our community who are hospitalized; to Doris Keown, who is a patient in Toronto General, to Sheena Tappin who is in St. Michaels, Toronto and to Gina Baum, a patient in Soldier's Memorial Hospital in Orillia. Best of luck to one and all.

I hope the vicious flu that has been making the rounds has passed you by and that it is on its way. It is something you don't want, believe me, as I know from experience. We could have done without that nasty wet snow on Good Friday. But they do say there is some nice weather in the offing. In spite of the poor weather many cottagers came to the area for the Easter weekend.

Tip: To clean a pot that has burnt food stuck to the bottom, boil some vinegar in it, take it off the heat and let it stand with the vinegar for an hour. Wash as usual.

Carnarvon News

by Yvonne Penney

Our recent weather has been typical April weather - showers and more showers with the odd sprinkle of snow. Yesterday, (Sunday) we picked pussy-willows which is a sure sign that there is better weather ahead for us.

Another spring event - a spring fashion show will be held on April 25 at 8 p.m. at the C.E. Building of Zion United Church here in Carnarvon. The show is free and refreshments will be served. Mark the date on your calendar and come out and see the new spring fashions and the attractive models.

We are to have an attractive new building in beautiful downtown Carnarvon. The site of the former Bargain Barn is being renovated by Carnarvon Lumber and I hear the new business will be open in May. I've heard of a couple of other new businesses to be opened here in the near future. What we need now is a bank and a drug store and we could be self-sufficient! According to an article in last week's paper, we are to have a "Board of Trade" for the metropolitan area of Carnarvon.

From the United Church Bulletin of April 13 - "Appreciation is like an insurance policy - you have to keep renewing it."

Roy and Shirley Colliss were pleasantly surprised last Saturday night on their arrival at the Minden Community Centre. Their many friends and relatives had gathered to honour them on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The party was arranged by their daughter, Marie, along with their two sons and their wives, Kim and Karen and Mike and Anne.

Wayne and Dale Toye and girls along with Fred and Ella Toye of B.C. (back of Carnarvon) spent the past weekend in Stayner with Wayne's sister, Judy and her family.

Don't forget the pot-luck supper at Maple Lake United Church this coming Saturday, April 19 from 5 - 7 p.m.

I had a note today from Blanche and Maurice Windsor who are still in Tampa, Florida, telling me how much they enjoy reading the "Echo" and keeping up with local news while they are away.

April is "Cancer Month" and canvassers will be calling soon for donations to help with research to find a cure for this dread disease which is taking so many of our friends and relatives. Be generous and help stamp out this disease.

Dorothy and Dick Kinsman flew to Galveston, Texas for a few days this past week.

My congratulations to Mary Barker of Monmouth council who recently donated a raise in salary to the local library. Too bad more of our Canadian politicians didn't believe as strongly as Mary in economic restraint!

Did you realize that in the Minden area there are 36 Red Cross volunteers working to make this community great? We need your help too.

Haliburton rich with beautiful flora

by Eleanor Skelton

With the approach of spring it is the aim of this writer to begin a series of Botanical Notes for the readers of County Echo which may help them to recognize and enjoy more fully the rich floral heritage which is ours in this area. From April to October, as the woods and landscape change in tune with the habits of their growing plants, there will be a long succession of awakenings, flowerings, seedings, and dyings to alter the scenery and make us very conscious of the seasons. We will watch this succession.

Haliburton is, to my mind, one of the province's most lush beauty spots. In its preferred position near the southern edge of the Canadian Shield it produces a mixture of plant life some of which grow habitually to the north or to the south as well as that which is characteristic of our own latitude. We have as well a number of species introduced by the early settlers either by intention or by accident as hitch-hiking, travelling, seeds attached to goods and chattels.

Geologically too Haliburton is a favoured area. Unlike the major part of the Canadian Shield, which is mostly granite, parts of Haliburton contain important inclusions of calcareous rocks which facilitate a larger variety of plant growth.

We begin our spring watch with the appearance of the Pussy Willow (Salix discolor). It is the earliest of the willows and produces the largest catkins on bare branches. While in the "pussy" stage the male and female shrubs look alike but as they develop the male catkins put out their long slender stamens tipped with bright yellow anthers (their most beautiful stage), and the females turn into long and drooping catkins up to 3 or 4 inches in length bearing numerous green seed capsules. As these ripen they burst into clouds of fluff, borne on the wind and carrying the attached tiny seeds away for distribution. The mature leaves, later in the season, are dark green above, and finely wrinkled and whitish on the under surface. Eight species of willows have been noted in Haliburton up to date. Some others will be described in another issue.

While we enjoy the pussy willows we can also be looking for the tiny blossoms of those shade trees which bloom before their leaves appear. The most colorful of these are the Silver Maple (acer saccharinum) and the Red or Swamp Maple (acer rubrum) and they are worthy of a close examination. They appear in clusters of rosy red flowers along the bare branches, and viewed through a 10X magnifying glass are revelation in their fine details. They are short-lived in this stage and soon begin to show the growth of small keys with which we are familiar in larger proportions later on. The Silver Maple later puts out leaves with deep notches between the lobes between a U and a V in outline, while the Red Maple leaves are less deeply cut and have sharp angled V shaped notches. Both like plenty of moisture but the Silver Maple in Haliburton is usually found leaning over the water on the banks of lakes and streams while the Red Maple prefers swampy areas.

The Poplars and the earliest woodland flowers will be blooming in April and into early May. These will be dealt with in the next issue of Botanical Notes.

Marijuana
The position of the Ontario Secondary School Headmasters' Council regarding marijuana, hashish and other cannabis products is that the use of these substances presents a very real threat to the health, welfare and safety of the young people of this country and that steps to discourage and prevent its use must be taken. O.S.S.H.C. also believes that greater responsibility for the actions young people should be placed on parents and the home with regard to the use of Cannabis. This is notwithstanding the fact that educators do have a responsibility, but if parents ignore: significant changes in their son's or daughter's habits or behaviour, the presence of devices in the home that are connected in some way with cannabis products and the distinctive "sweet odour" of burning marijuana in the house or on clothing then they are condoning their son's or daughter's activities.

In other words if parents wish to abdicate their responsibilities to young people, then the efforts of the government, the courts, the police and the schools will be of little effect.

Recommendations of the O.S.S.H.C. with respect to legislative change regarding marijuana, hashish and other cannabis products are:

1. The federal government should undertake an intensive campaign to educate the public regarding the expanding base of research on the effects of marijuana on health, safety and motivation.

2. Cannabis should be removed from the Narcotics Control Act and placed under the Food and Drug Act. It would thus remain under the control of the federal government.

3. Simple possession must remain an offence.

4. The court must be able to determine whether or not the person charged is a repeat offender.

5. The penalties for possession should be a clear demonstration that the smoking of marijuana is not condoned by society.

But, as a parent you ask - what can I do?

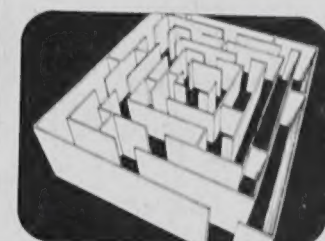

First, become more knowledgeable about the health risks involved with marijuana. Simply call the school at 457-2950 and give your name and correct mailing address. Two pamphlets will be mailed to you; the first is an Addiction Research Foundation pamphlet entitled "Cannabis: Adverse Effects on Health" and the second is a partial reprint of a draft report on marijuana that was presented at the 1980 Headmasters' Conference in Toronto. If you wish, you may simply drop into the Board of Education office behind Black's Hardware, in Haliburton, and pick up the pamphlets.

Second, as stated earlier, be responsible for and observant about your son's or daughter's habits and behaviour. If there is a sudden change, then what are the possible causes?

Third, write to your elected members of government and let your feelings and attitudes be known to them. As a citizen and as a Principal of a secondary school, I wrote the following letter in the fall of 1979. Dear (Proper Salutation): This will not be a verbose letter. From experience I know that public servants are very busy people and do not have time for such things.

As Principal of a secondary school, in the Province of Ontario, I am deeply concerned for our young people and indeed, the future of Canadian society at large.

Specifically, the possible or potential effect on young people of marijuana and other non-medically used drugs, both socially and physiologically is of prime concern to me.

The government of Canada and governments at all levels must take all steps possible (i.e. laws, educational programs, etc.) to discourage the use of such substances. In my judgment, young people do not need another distraction in addition to alcohol that can potentially ruin their lives and negate their contribution to, and participation in Canadian society.

If anything, the laws must be more strict and not more lax. Also, the courts must impose penalties to discourage the use of drugs and not be lenient with guilty offenders simply because the improper use of drugs is so prevalent.

It is the responsibility of the institutions of society to preserve it! Like many parental decisions in raising children, governmental decisions will not always be popular. However, they are made for the sake of the individual and society at large.

I would appreciate a brief response to my views. Yours very truly, T. Brian Mosgrove, Principal.

Lindsay students to learn drilling in Haliburton

Students from Sir Sandford Fleming College's Resources Drilling program will participate in an eight-day drilling exercise at the Shamrock Drillers quarry near Haliburton April 21-24 and April 28-May 1.

Forty of the Lindsay-based Frost Campus students will gain on-site experience in geotechnical drilling, diamond, and blast hole drilling at the Haliburton granite quarry.

The Haliburton program is designed to supplement the three months of training the students received at the Standard Aggregates limestone quarry near Brechin.

and Mr. William C. Scott.

In this article I have, for the most part, avoided legal and moral aspects of my concern and have focused upon adult responsibility and health implications for users of marijuana and associated substances. For example, eight days after the last joint (a marijuana cigarette), 20% of the THC (tetrahydrocannabinol - the active ingredient in all cannabis products) is still in the body. The two pamphlets available will provide much more detail regarding the health risks.

This is the last Principal's Newsletter of the current school year and I wish to thank those who have offered me their kind comments and criticisms about this series of articles.

Council sponsors daycare project

Rosemary Kenney asked the Social Planning Council to sponsor her request for a survey assessing the need for daycare services in the county. This programme would operate through the Ministry of Community and Social Services, and employ four students, one of whom would co-ordinate the project. Elsie Bursey suggested that Mrs. Kenney contact Barbara Pierce regarding the plan. It was moved and seconded that the sponsorship be undertaken by the Social Planning Council.

Catherine Kellett indicated that she was resigning as secretary.

The unofficial constitution of the Social Planning Council was distributed. Mr. Miller suggested that the constitution be adopted for study.

Elsie Bursey informed the meeting of several problems. Firstly, she said she is reluctant to continue as chairman and would like the membership to find a replacement for her. Secondly, the membership of the council needs to be augmented to produce a viable organization. Thirdly, the objectives of the council appear to overlap those of the Social Services Committee. It was suggested by Bruce Watson that a delegation from the council attend the next meeting of the Social Services Committee to discuss a union of the two under the auspices of the council. It was moved by Grace Coburn, and seconded by Gwen Kennedy that the delegation be authorized to make any decisions on the council's future at that meeting.

The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday, April 24, 1980 at 9:30 a.m. in the Minden Council Chambers.
